India beat Zimbabwe by 5 wickets, seal series

HARARE: Sanju Samson produced a responsible unbeaten 43 after a clinical bowling display, led by pacer Shardul Thakur, as India sailed to a five-wicket win over Zimbabwe in the second ODI to take an unassailable 2-0 lead in the three-match series in Harare on Saturday. It was not quite a domination unlike the first ODI but the paltry 162-run target meant that the K L Rahul-led side did not have to sweat much despite a mid-innings jolt | P15

THREAT MESSAGES FROM PAK WARNS OF 26/11-TYPE ATTACK

The text messages received by the Mumbai police on Friday came from a number that carried the country code of Pakistan. The messages received on the WhatsApp number of the Mumbai traffic police's helpline said the city would be blown up in a 26/11-like attack. One of the messages said some aides of the terrorists are already working in India. The Mumbai Police said it has taken the messages seriously and an FIR has been registered at the Worli police station.

Role of linkman Arora emerges in Delhi scam

SUMIT KUMAR SINGH @ New Delhi

A day after the CBI filed a case against 15 accused and raided the residence of Delhi Deputy Chief Minister Manish Sisodia in connection with a liquor policy scam, initial findings exposed a deep nexus between bureaucrats, liquor barons and politicians — with a crucial linkman at the centre of it.

Sources said the scam was operated through Amit Arora, director of Buddy Retail Pvt Limited based in Gurugram, via his network of links with bureaucrats, AAP politicians, "a Congress neta" and a southern politician. The agency called four accused for questioning and recorded their statements on Saturday.

The CBI is looking at the papers of Arora's companies, especially expenditures on flight tickets and hotel bills to unravel details of the nexus.

It has been alleged that Arora, who has a background in engineering and business studies and is a director in many companies, was the brain behind drafting the "faulty" liquor policy and also the one who ensured kickbacks for all beneficiaries.

Buddy Retail, which operates "two liquor zones of Delhi as well (the) airport zone and Zone 30", is a front for a "big corporate house", sources said. Arora allegedly secured the rights to the airport zone with the help of a politician.

It is alleged that the plan and drafting of the liquor policy began when IAS officers Vijay Kumar Dev and Ankur Garg were at the helm of Delhi administration. Dev was Chief Secretary and Garg his staff officer. Sources said that Arora, who is known to have deep connections in the Delhi and Punjab bureaucracy, was in regular touch with Dev and Garg during the framing of the policy. Arora has known Dev from the time the latter was advisor to the Chandigarh administrator, a post he was ousted from in 2016. CONTINUED ON: P10

Sisodia expects his arrest in a few days

A day after his residence was raided in connection with the ongoing probe into the Delhi excise policy, Deputy Chief Minister Manish Siosdia on Saturday claimed the searches were not related to corruption but to the "meteoric" rise of Arvind Kejriwal, who he said has become the only alternative opposition prime ministerial candidate against Prime Minister Narendra Modi in the 2024 general elections. Sisodia expected his arrest in the next few days, adding he would be happy to go to jail rather than "kneel before the CBI-ED".

Rahul opts out, Cong may get non-Gandhi president

SHAHID FARIDI @ New Delhi

THE Congress may have a non-Gandhi party president nearly three decades after the last non-Gandhi president, Sitaram Kesri, was unceremoniously removed from office when the leadership decided to anoint Sonia Gandhi in his place.

Sources said Rahul Gandhi had refused to return as Congress president. Sonia Gandhi, who has been holding the post as interim chief, has also expressed her desire not to continue in the post citing health reasons. When Rahul had resigned taking responsibility for the party's defeat in the 2019 Lok Sabha elections, the CWC had unanimously rejected it. But he had refused to continue.

Names of Rajasthan Chief Minister Ashok Gehlot, party general secretary Mukul Wasnik, former Speaker of Lok Sabha Meira Kumar, former finance minister P Chidambaram and leader of Opposition in the Rajya Sabha Mallikarjun Kharge are doing the rounds.

The younger lot, too, is hopeful of being catapulted to the top post. But desertion by leaders such as Jyotiraditya Scindia and Jitin Prasada has made party managers wary of betting on young leaders. The group of 23 rebels, some of whom have made up with the party leadership, is likely to throw its hat in the ring.

The next party chief will have to be an elected one. The process will start on August 21 and conclude with the election of the new president on September 20. The CWC will be called next week where the chairman of the central election committee Madhusudan Mistry will present the fresh set of electoral rolls for the election of a new Congress president.

Ostracised 10 yrs ago... still no hope for this family

SUBHASH CHANDRA N S @ Harwada (Ankola)

IT'S BEEN a decade since the family of Bunt Venku Gouda, who belongs to the Halakki Vokkaliga community, was banished from their village, Harwada. Their crime: They did not invite the village head, Anand Siddagouda, who also happens to be Venku's cousin, for the wedding of his son, Sanjay Bunt Gouda.

The social boycott was imposed on February 15, 2012 and since then the family has been paying a very heavy price. Harwada is a tiny village in Ankola, with 200 houses and a population of about 1,000 people, inhabited by Halakki Vokkaliga community members.

FLOWERS THAT NEVER LOSE THEIR BEAUTY

Craft teacher transforms waste paper and cloth into decorative products, which are eco-friendly and economical

ARPITHA I @ Shivamogga

Turning waste into value is a skill, and turning it further into something beautiful is a craft. It's this gift to see beauty and art in things normally considered waste that propelled Mary D'Souza, a 58-year-old craft teacher, on a journey of creativity, taking interested kids and fellow teachers along.

People often spend a fortune on decoration and embellishments at weddings, birthday parties, and other social gatherings and ceremonies, with most of this grandeur going to waste after the glad tidings. The idea to offer such products in a reusable and biodegradable avatar has been guiding Mary along her chosen green path.

Mary, who is a craft teacher at Dr B R Ambedkar Residential Government School at Ragigudda in Shivamogga since 1993, has been training children and other craft teachers in turning waste cloth and paper into decorative pieces free of cost, in turn leaving behind a zero waste footprint.

She has been involved with this conscious pursuit since 2016. It all began when she once watched a cow grazing by the roadside. The animal was in great pain with an iron wire caught in its throat. The wire originated from a stick used to support gerbera flowers at a function, which was carelessly dumped by the side of the road. Unable to see the bovine suffer, she chanced upon the idea to offer similar decorative products made from biodegradable, waste material, which was reusable and also hazard-free. She also decided to make people aware of this interest. Accordingly, her products take shape from pieces of cloth collected from tailors and paper scraps from printing presses, among other materials which otherwise go waste.

Mary realised that decorations made out of waste and reusable materials could reduce cost while promoting environment-friendly decorations among people at events. After seeing heaps of waste cloth and paper lying on the road, she thought of making flowers out of them.

Sometime later, the wedding of her son gave her the opportunity to popularise her cause. She felt that her son's wedding ceremony could serve as a platform to showcase her work, and accordingly, she decorated the stage with craft made from waste sarees, and flowers made of waste cloth. Also, flower bouquets were wrapped in reused waste material, while coloured flowers themselves were made from paper. All this cost her a humble Rs 7,000 and the decoration was much appreciated by the people.

She began offering similar decorations to churches, halls and for government programmes, besides other events like weddings, birthday parties, felicitation programmes, baby showers and naming ceremonies, among others, all free of cost, billing only for travel expenses.

During her entire venture, there is zero waste produced, which is also good for the environment. Receiving many accolades from people, Mary now works to disseminate her noble, ingenious idea to future generations as well.

"My aim is to reduce waste from decorations at events and work towards zero waste. I make decorations as per the given theme of the event or as suggested by the clients. I also visit government schools to train children in making decorations from waste materials free of cost. During the outbreak of Covid, several craft teachers took lessons from me online. Many children who have learnt this art have tried to replicate it at home during festivals, by utilising the needed materials collected from me. Parents are happy that their children have learnt a useful and environment-friendly craft, which ultimately brings me immense joy and satisfaction. Any extra payment made by clients, after deducting my travel expenses, is given to charity," she concludes.

The art created by Mary has been helping students and children in rural areas as they can't afford to buy costly decorative items for small birthday celebrations and other programmes. With this innovative idea of recycling waste products for decorative purposes, students have become environmentally conscious and are actively trying them at home or gifting them to guests

Ankita, kicking high with karate

PRAJNA GR @ Madikeri

It is no secret that India is a cricket-crazy nation and it won't be an exaggeration to say that life comes to a standstill when the Men in Blue are out on the field. But there are other sportspersons, too, who are trying to carve out a niche for themselves. India's success in the recent Commonwealth Games at Birmingham when the Indian Tricolour was hoisted scores of times in less-popular sports is a testimony to this.

Opting for such sport is Ankita BT from Madikeri, who is kicking high with karate. Already a junior black belt holder, this 21-year-old has bigger dreams, not just for her, but for the entire nation.

Her tryst with karate began as a nine-year-old. "Karate always seemed challenging and I started training," she recalls. She says there were not many takers for karate among girls and felt the need to break the stereotype.

Ankita, who has been training at Phoenix Academy India in Bengaluru, made her debut at the national championship when she was in Class 8 and craved to achieve more. Since then, she has participated in the All-Indian Independence Cup in 2015, Bangalore Open Karate Championship in 2016, All-India Independence Cup in Goa in in 2016, All-Independence Cup, All-Indian Sports Extravaganza VIE in 2017, Intercollegiate Karate Championship in 2017, KAI Nationals, Indian Seiko Kai Karate Championship and more. She has won several gold and silver medals in many of these competitions.

"Karate is recognised by the International Olympic Committee, but not by the Indian Olympic Association. Though the Karate India Organisation supports athletes to take part in the World Championships and other Asian Championships that help us attain the World Karate Federation ranking, it does not fund the players. Expenses are covered only for the Olympics and Asian Games and we have to spend our own money to take part in other international events," she adds. A South zone and a state medallist, she is also the vice-chairperson of Women's Sports Commission of Akhila Karnataka Sports Karate Association.

She is now in Thailand participating in the Open Karate-Do Championship that started from August 19. "I have been training regularly and my ambition is to take part in more challenging championships. I also look forward to participating in the Karate 1 Series A at Kocaeli in Turkey and Karate 1 Series A Jakarta Indonesia Championships in September," she says.

But sourcing funds has been the biggest challenge and seeks support from the state and sponsors to achieve her goal of representing India and Karnataka at these championships. She says she wants to educate girls on the need for self-defence and motivate more women to join the sport.

Poll panel asks BBMP to issue draft voters' list

Bengaluru: Taking a step closer to the much awaited municipality elections, the State Election Commission has asked the BBMP to issue the draft voters' list to registered political parties and resident welfare associations from August 25. The election to the Palike will be interesting this time as the ward count has been increased to 243 from 198 after the delimitation exercise by the Karnataka government. State Election Commissioner Basavaraju also directed the BBMP to appoint ward-wise officers and prepare a list for this purpose. ENS

Single window to grant permission for setting up Ganesha pandals across city

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

BBMP Chief Commissioner Tushar Girinath said a single window clearance system will be set-up at 65 sub-divisions in all the eight zones to grant permission for Ganesha pandals.

The sub-divisions will comprise officials of BESCOM, Fire and Emergency Services and the police, with the BBMP AEE having the authority to grant the permissions.

"Officials must clear applications by stating that the permission seekers can put up Ganesha pandals only on conditions like following the immersion protocol, managing waste and other rules set by the Palike," he said.

The Palike has selected Sankey tank, Ulsoor tank, Yediyur tank and Hebbal tank and a few others for immersion of idols and officials have been instructed to make preparations in advance. The BBMP will also place immersion tankers on important junctions and a few main roads in wards. Officials have been told to ensure that at least 10 swimmers are roped in for each tank for safety. Use of loudspeakers to spread the message about making the festival environment friendly was advised.

The BBMP also made it clear that puja materials, flowers, banana stems and torans should be cleared and instructed officials to deploy vehicles on a daily basis for the purpose.

The Commissioner appealed to the public not to use idols made of paint and plaster of paris as it may pollute water bodies and directed officials to conduct checking at places selling Ganesha idols. The palike has banned bursting of crackers as well as flexes and banners with wishes for the festival.

Police dept will get biogas to cook food for dog squad

S LALITHA @Bengaluru

THE City Armed Reserve (CAR) campus in Adugodi has become the first in the City's Police Department to have a waste management facility. The biogas generated through wet waste will soon be used to cook food for its huge dog squad here.

Hasiru Dala, a social impact organisation that works for the welfare of waste pickers, has installed the apparatus comprising a Dry Waste Collection Centre and a biogas unit on the premises of CAR recently. The initiative is led by Deputy Commissioner of Police (Administration) Nisha James and supported by DCP Channabasappa Hosamani.

Hasiru Dala Project Manager Nirmala Shekar told TNIE, "The biogas unit, which can handle up to one tonne of waste per day, has just started processing. It is now managing up to 500 kg of wet waste generated by 1,400 households in the police quarters and the DCP's office inside the campus. The actual output as biogas will be ready for complete use within two weeks." CAR has a 64-strong dog squad. "The biogas generated using a digester will be used to prepare daily food for the squad. This is an eco-friendly as well as economical solution," she said.

The waste management facility in the City Armed Reserve police campus

The dry waste centre will start functioning within two weeks with waste also collected from a shop, school and other buildings in the campus. The facility has been installed as a corporate social responsibility initiative by GAIL India and IOCL.

This is being done in line with Storm Water Management Rules 2016 issued by the Ministry of Environment, Forests and Climate Change as well as mandated by the National Green Tribunal.

AFTER CYCLE DAY, DULT WANTS TO POPULARISE 'SLOW STREET'

Bengaluru: After the success of the Cycle Day campaign, the Directorate of Urban Land Transport (DULT) is now seeking to replicate the 'Slow Street' concept wherein motorists reduce speed so that cyclists and pedestrians get preference to move safely. The agency has held discussions with the public to seek opinion and suggestions in this regard. With the concept gaining grounds at Church street and Commercial street, the authorities plan to replicate in other parts of the city. If NGOs and resident welfare associations come forward to popularise this concept, permission can be taken from other stakeholders like the BBMP and the Police, said DULT officials. ENS

New initiative to boost mental healthcare

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

MORE investment should come into the crucial clinical psychology segment, said Capt. P Manivannan, secretary to the government, Social Welfare Department.

At the launch of the Clinical Psychology Society of India (CPSI), he said 75 per cent of employees face mental health issues because of an unstable work environment and initiatives like CPSI will help in educating professionals to provide the right care.

NIMHANS Director Dr Pratima Murty said the number of clinical psychologists at 2,900 is meagre in the country. Efforts are required to bring a drastic change in resolving mental health issues.

CSPI will help in providing quality healthcare to people and training and education to medical graduates, she said.

CPSI president Dr Jamuna Rajeshwaran said the organisation will establish evidence-based care for psychological disorders. CPSI was formed as a regulating and monitoring body was lacking, she added.

'Late hosp admission leading to Covid deaths'

Health commissioner says waning effect of vax in those who haven't taken booster another reason for the spike

SHIPLA P @ Bengaluru

STATE Health Commissioner D Randeep has attributed the increase in number of deaths due to Covid-19 to late admissions in hospitals and late testing only when the condition becomes serious.

Randeep said that the waning effect of vaccination in those who haven't taken booster dose is another reason for the spike in deaths. Among those who have taken the second dose so far, only 8.34% of those above 18 years of age and 44.79% of those above 60 years have taken the booster dose.

While five Covid-19 deaths were reported in April, there were six reported in May, 10 in June, 29 in July and 58 in August so far, which include 19 females and a nine-month old female infant. This month alone, among those dead, ten did not have any comorbidities and 14 were below 60 years of age.

Randeep said that those above 60 years and those with comorbidities who test positive for Covid-19 should seek treatment at hospitals.

BBMP Special Commissioner (Health) Dr Trilok Chandra said that among those who have died, Covid-19 was detected incidentally when they came to hospital for some other treatment, as it is mandatory to get tested before admission to ICU.

Yet the case fatality rate in Bengaluru is still low at 0.03%, Randeep said.

Although Bengaluru is recording the highest number of cases, this month Dharwad reported the highest number of deaths (nine), followed by Bengaluru Urban which reported six deaths, Ballari is third highest with five deaths and four each were reported from Koppal and Dakshina Kannada.

Man uses spy cam to harass woman, held

ENS @ Bengaluru

A 30-year-old man who was allegedly blackmailing a woman into having a physical relationship with him, by capturing videos of her changing clothes from a spy camera, has been arrested by the CEN police of the North East division.

The accused was known to the victim. He had plugged the spy camera that looked like a mobile phone charger into a switch board in her room. She was unaware of the spy camera being there. After she blocked him on her phone and his social media accounts, he sent her a video on one of her social media accounts and threatened to upload them on porn sites, if she failed to cooperate with him. The victim filed a complaint with the CEN police.

The accused has been identified as M Mahesh, from T Narasipura in Mysuru district. Initially, she was unaware that the accused was known to her. He kept messaging her on social media by creating fake profiles. As she did not know him, she kept blocking him. He repeatedly sent messages by creating more accounts and was forcing her to chat with him. To begin with, she ignored him after he claimed to have her private videos. As a sample, he sent one of her videos to her social media account. The shocked victim realised that the video was recorded in her bedroom. She did not know how her videos were recorded when there was nobody in that room. The accused was arrested on August 12 in Mysuru. After he was produced before her, the victim found out that he was known to her. When he had gone to see her at her house in Bengaluru, he had covertly placed the spy camera in her room. The victim is said to have assumed that it was just a mobile charger.

The police have recovered one spy camera, a laptop, two memory cards, pen drive and two mobile phones. The accused was arrested based on the IP address of his social media accounts through which he was harassing her. He had purchased the spy camera online.

Habitual thief held for house break-ins

A 30-year-old habitual thief has been arrested for allegedly committing a series of house break-ins. The accused, Prakash alias Balaji, along with his associate, Kataiah, would look for To-Let signs and take photos of the keys under the pretext of seeing the house, and then have duplicate keys made. They would then wait until somebody rented those houses, and steal from them using the duplicate keys.

Youth held for killing grandpa

ENS @ Bengaluru

A 20-year-old youth, along with his friend, who had allegedly killed his 70-year-old grandfather, has been arrested by the Yelahanka police. The victim, a retired Kendriya Vidyalaya employee, had refused financial help to his grandson, which resulted in the murder on Wednesday. The victim has been identified as C Puttaiah, a resident of Surabhi Layout in Yelahanka.

The accused are identified as C Jayanth, a resident of Mysuru, and S Yaseen (22), of Hassan. Jayanth is the grandson of the victim.

Puttaiah had refused to divide his property among his four children due to some differences. Jayanth was upset over the refusal. Jayanth's father P Chandru is the second son of the victim. He was also frustrated that his grandfather was not agreeing to become a surety for the loan, which he had planned to take.

On Wednesday, Jayanth allegedly entered Puttaiah's house through the rear door and punched him in the face and chest. After Puttaiah fell unconscious, the accused smothered him with a pillow. Yaseen had helped Jayanth by keeping watch outside the house.

Justice Oka: Our achievement average

BENGALURU: Supreme Court Judge Justice Abhay Shreeniwas Oka on Saturday said he doesn't think that the judiciary has achieved great or nothing, but it is in the middle in the last 75 years of Independence. Speaking on "India's judicial system in its 75th year and vision to build it as the best justice delivery system in the world-The role of judges and lawyers in this endeavour", he said the judiciary -- judges, lawyers and staff -- must introspect whether they have fulfilled the expectations of citizens and dreams and aspirations of freedom fighters and Constitution framers in delivering speedy and quality justice. "If our approach is citizen-centric in the coming 25 years, we can achieve what we have done in 75 years," he added. ENS

BJP leaders are all set to embark on a tour of Karnataka next month, with the party also planning to hold seven big rallies. BJP sources said the party leaders headed by CM Basavaraj Bommai and state president Nalinkumar Kateel will be visiting 50 Assembly segments each before mid-October, while all the top leaders, including former CM BS Yediyurappa, will attend seven big rallies planned during that period.

SUNDAY INTERVIEW

'Ganeshotsava in schools not a religious issue'

DEVARAJ B HIREHALLI

IN the runup to the 2023 Assembly polls, the state has been witnessing a series of issues in different spheres with the education sector seeing a storm of 'controversies', from the revision of textbooks to the government allowing 'Ganeshotsava' at schools and colleges. In an interview with TNSE, Primary and Secondary Education Minister BC Nagesh said, "Whenever BJP comes to power and tries to teach nationalism and patriotism to students, certain forces oppose it." Excerpts:

Whether it is 'hijab' or textbooks or Ganeshotsava, it is the education sector which suffers. Why?
Whenever BJP comes to power and tries to teach nationalism and patriotism to students, there are forces that oppose it. Some poets raked up an issue of Textbooks Revision Committee former chairperson Rohit Chakratirta forwarding a distorted version of 'Nadageethe' on social media some years ago. But they did not have any problem with Baraguru Ramachandrappa twisting the 'Rastrageethe' with his own annotations. It is double standards as they want to oppose the government for the sake of opposing. But whenever BJP has come to power, the state has received good rain, and farmers are happy as they are also getting Rs 10,000 including Rs 6,000 from the Centre.

But after the issue was raised, you revised the textbooks...
There were small errors by the Chakratirtha committee that were set right. Yet, falsehoods were spread that the chapter on Narayanaguru was removed. But we have just shifted it from social sciences to Kannada to reduce the burden on teachers, as they were complaining.

Now, Ganeshotsava has become an issue as you have allowed it to be celebrated in schools...
Ganeshotsava is not an issue, but so-called secularists always create some problems. In 1893, Balagangadharanatha Tilak brought the Gangesha festival to the social sphere as part of the nationalism movement. It was to unite the Indian society to fight against the British and in a similar exercise, Saraswathi pooja too was celebrated in schools before the Independence.

Now, BJP-backed Wakf Board chairman Shafi Saadi wants Eid Milad and namaz allowed in schools...
Everyone has a freedom to put forth their demands, but it is the government that decides. Even if Hindus want it, religious practices like Ayyappa puja and Ugadi cannot be allowed in schools. The court has clarified it and the Karnataka Education Act too does not allow such religious practises.

The VD Savarkar issue has cropped up now...
Savarkar was a great man whose entire family sacrificed for the Independence. If someone chooses to carry his photo on posters, the government has nothing to do with it. Leader of Opposition Siddaramaiah should explain why Savarkar's posters cannot be put up in 'Muslim areas'. Are these all their private property?

Will these issues adversely affect BJP in the polls?
Not at all. BJP has always ruled for the welfare of people. Leaders like Shyam Prasad Mukherjee and Deendayal Upadhyaya had envisioned 'antyodaya' or the welfare of the last person in society. We don't create programmes for the sake of winning polls.

What was the reason for the order making the national anthem mandatory in schools?
Some educational institutions, which have the minority status, did not follow the rules. If they violate the rules, we know how to deal with them as per the provisions of Karnataka Education Act.

But the department did not have money for shoes and socks for students.
It's wrong to say that, as we have already issued the orders. We had said our focus is on qualitative changes in education. We will spend Rs 46 crore on shoes and Rs 176 for 'Kalika Chetarike' and the latter is more important for us. We have also been thinking of arranging the transportation for students.

What about the distribution of eggs?
We have been distributing eggs to children for the last three months by utilising Rs 40 crore central grants. We care for the health and nutrition of children following PM Narendra Modi's vision.

What will be the impact of appointment of former CM BS Yediyurappa as a member of the central parliamentary board on the polls?
As a cadre-based party, BJP runs on its organisational strength. Yediyurappa's appointment is definitely an added advantage. For us, it's routine.

Whenever BJP comes to power and tries to teach nationalism and patriotism to students, there are forces that oppose it... It is double standards as they want to oppose the government for the sake of opposing

'We'll be busy in coming months, but will manage'

BALA CHAUHAN

THE recent killings of Masood B, Praveen Nettaru and Mohammed Fazil between July 19 and 28 in coastal Karnataka followed by violence in Shivamogga on August 15 over installation of posters of Veer Savarkar and Tipu Sultan have scarred the communal fabric in the State. The police have been under tremendous pressure to detect the cases post haste and maintain law and order in a highly charged and polarised atmosphere.

"Policing has become a challenge. Instead of focussing on public-centric schemes and service delivery, our energies are diverted to maintaining law and order. We will have our hands full in the coming months, but we will rise to the occasion," said Additional Director General of Police, Law & Order, Alok Kumar in an exclusive interview with The New Sinday Express. Excerpts:

Q&A

With the Assembly elections eight months away, are the police well equipped to deal with the challenges ahead given the past experiences of growing intolerance and mutual distrust among people?
The police have been busy firefighting communal and law and order issues that had the potential to escalate further. For every single incident of violence and arson there are at least five to six incidents, which could have flared up but were nipped in the bud because of our timely efforts.

The public doesn't come to know about them. It is a challenge to maintain peace and harmony where there is trust deficit. Maintaining law and order is the top priority of the government and the police have been entrusted with the key responsibility. In a democracy, people enjoy the right to protest peacefully. But today, there are different perspectives, which lead to action and further chain of reactions, some of which turn violent. This makes the job of the police difficult.

How is the ground situation in coastal Karnataka and Shivamogga now?
Coastal Karnataka and Shivamogga have turned into hotspots. We call community leaders for peace talks and they do come but the undercurrents are strong. As Additional Director General of Police, Law & Order, I know the situation on the ground and the amount of work police are putting in to maintain peace. We need to take fair, firm and fast action, especially in a communal situation. We must act fast and as per law. Our responses have to be quick. There cannot be any shortcuts.

There were three murders in the coastal Karnataka region in a span of 10 days. What kind of pressure were you and the unit officers under while handling the situation?
It was a highly charged atmosphere after the murder of Praveen Nettaru in Bellare. Our first priority was to bring back law and order in the region. Handling the processions, protests, Praveen's cremation and VIP visits were big challenges. The media pressure was unduly high on us with unverified stories circulating and further vitiating the already fragile atmosphere. We got an early breakthrough. The police arrested some people but the three main accused were still at large.

After 17 days, on August 11, we finally got the trio - Shiyabuddin, Riyaz and Basheer from Talpady. Thanks to the government support, though they had handed the case to the National Investigation Agency, we arrested all the accused before handing over the case to the Central agency. Fazil murder had created a pressure cooker like situation for the police. I was with the chief minister in Bellare, who was on his way to the airport, when we got the news. I was shocked. It was most unexpected. But due to the efforts of local police we managed to arrest the accused in no time.

Will confidence-building measures and proactive policing help in containing further violence?
We are continuously on the job. People still have faith in the police. We hold regular peace meetings with community leaders in sensitive areas. We are also engaging with the youth in Belagavi, Hubballi-Dharwad, coastal Karnataka and Shivamogga, trying to motivate them in taking a positive role in social issues, traffic management, nation building and joining the mainstream.

Even if we succeed 5-10 per cent in motivating them, we can be hopeful of a positive change. We must keep up our communication with the youth and give them direction. We are also in talks with political parties and leaders to help construct a conducive ecosystem. The police are trying their best to minimise the gap.

Knife attack bid too on Siddu: KPCC spokesman

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Mysuru

KPCC spokesperson M Lakshman on Saturday claimed that when eggs were thrown at the car of Congress Legislature Party leader Siddaramaiah in Kodagu recently, there was also an attempt made to attack him with a knife. "But it was foiled as there were security guards around Siddaramaiah. The intention was clear," he added.

Lakshman said Sampath, who threw eggs at the vehicle, is an RSS activist.

"His father Sundara Murthy is a member of Somwarpet Town Panchayat. Sampath is a civil contractor and close to BJP MLA Appachu Ranjan. Sampath's photo with a Congress flag and shawl is taken on the building terrace belonging to Appachu Rajan. Sampath is not a Congressman, but an RSS worker from Napoklu region. Let there be a judicial inquiry and I will provide all the documents to prove that he is an RSS worker and the photos are doctored," he said.

Lakshman also claimed that he has the audio clippings of another Kodagu MLA KG Bopaiah speaking with the BJP high command, which directed him to attack Siddaramaiah to stop his popularity.

"When we were at Periyapatna, Siddaramaiah made over 10 calls to the Kodagu superintendent of police to inform him that there was a plan to attack him. But the SP did not receive the call nor called back. Siddaramaiah's car was attacked with eggs and stones. It was an organised attack by the RSS to assassinate Siddaramaiah," he alleged.

AAB prez: With Adalat's speed, there will be no need for lawyers, judges

ENS @Bengaluru

THERE were differences between judges and lawyers over the furious pace with which the Karnataka State Legal Services Authority (KSLSA) is settling cases. At an event on Saturday, Advocates' Association of Bangalore (AAB) president Vivek Reddy said, "We will support the cause of the Lok Adalat, where cases are being settled in lakhs. But if the same speed continues, there will be no need for lawyers and judges. It needs to slow down."

Earlier, Karnataka State Legal Services Authority (KSLSA) Chairman Justice B Veerappa, who is also a high court judge, said a record 30 lakh cases, including seven lakh pending cases, were disposed of amicably through the Lok Adalat in the last 10 months after he took over as chairman of KSLSA.

Launching an AAB website on the premises of the City Civil Court, Justice Veerappa said, "We need the support of lawyers. AAB past president AP Ranganath and present president Vivek Subba Reddy should not mistake me. Both of you are not supporting me. The cases including pre-litigation ones are being settled through the Lok Adalat since 2014. But why are you not supporting me alone?"

Mentioning that he too practised as a lawyer for nearly three decades, he said around 60 per cent of cases are before the court, while the remaining are being settled through alternative dispute resolution forums. Lawyers should support KSLSA and not oppose it by taking up pre-litigation cases, like revenue-related ones, before the Lok Adalat. "A pre-litigation revenue case takes several rounds to get resolved, reaching up to the Supreme Court and remitting back to civil court," he said.

Supreme Court Judge, Justice Abhay Shreeniwas Oka said disposal of a large number of cases through the Lok Adalat will not affect lawyers, instead it will increase the common man's faith in them. Justice Oka said that lawyers being officers of the court should look at the Lok Adalat positively, as they will also benefit and judges can also find time for cases where their actual intervention is required.

Nothing wrong in putting Savarkar's portraits in Ganeshotsava pandals, says Ashoka

KALABURAGI: Revenue Minister R Ashoka on Saturday said there is nothing wrong in putting up portraits of VD Savarkar at Ganesha pandals in the state. Ashoka, who to spend a day at Adaki village of Sedam taluk as part of the grama vastavya programme, said he does not want to comment on Sri Rama Sene chief Pramod Mutalik's call to pro-Hindu activists to put up Savarkar's portraits at Ganesha pandals. "Savarkar was a patriot and he was sent to jail as he had killed a British officer. Congress leaders allege that Savarkar came out from the jail after writing a letter seeking apology from the British. But it is a matter of controversy as no one has checked the letter's authenticity," he said. "But it is wrong to place portraits of Nathuram Godse and action will be taken against anyone who does so," he said. He denied the allegations of Congress that the government is not functioning in the state. ENS

Man who threw eggs at Siddu's car claims to be Congman, party denies

ENS @Madikeri

THE political turmoil that has struck Kodagu doesn't seem to abate anytime soon, with a man claiming to be a Congress worker stating that he threw eggs at Opposition Leader Siddaramaiah's car during the latter's visit to the district on Thursday. However, the Congress was quick to refute claims that he was one of its own.

Sampath, a resident of Chowdlu in Somwarpet taluk, said he was a supporter of former minister Jeevijaya when he was in JDS and continued to be one even after the latter had joined the Congress. Further, he said that he "is a Hindu first and I oppose the statements of Siddaramaiah claiming Kodavas as beef eaters and the introduction of Tipu Jayanti". "I was at Guddehosuru on some personal work on Thursday. When Siddaramaiah visited the spot, I threw eggs at his car," he stated.

However, the district Congress denied that Sampath was a Congress worker and pulled out an old photograph of him sporting a saffron shawl and posing with BJP MLA Appachu Ranjan to buttress its claim. "The BJP is trying to stop the massive protest planned by the Congress on August 26. Sampath is not a Congress worker," said Mithun Gowda, district Youth Congress president. Congress legal advisor and senior advocate A S Ponanna accused the BJP of creating unrest in the district, further alleging that people were hired and brought to the district to protest against Siddaramaiah.

Further, even as a 'Kodagu Chalo' movement and a protest in front of the Madikeri SP Office to condemn the attack on Siddaramaiah has been planned on August 26 by the state Congress, Kodagu District BJP president Robin Devaiah announced that a massive congregation of BJP workers will be hosted on the same day at Gandhi Maidan in Madikeri.

Addressing reporters in Madikeri, Devaiah accused the Congress of spreading communal hatred. He claimed that BJP workers were not involved in hurling eggs at the former CM and demanded that the incident be thoroughly probed.

Referring to the photograph of Sampath with him, Madikeri MLA Appachu Ranjan said he is a popular personality, and hence, the accused had clicked a photograph with him. He denied that Sampath is a BJP worker. Virajpet MLA KG Bopaiah said Tipu Sultan had attacked Kodagu 32 times. The 'Kodagu Chalo' call given by Siddaramaiah is the 33rd attack by the kin of Tipu Sultan, he charged.

7 BJP workers arrested in Madikeri

Madikeri police have arrested seven BJP members - Sathya Karkera, Mahesh Jaini, Naveen Poojari, Bharath, Umesh Subramani and Shwetha - for allegedly blocking the Siddaramaiah's convoy at the checkpost near Madikeri on Thursday. The arrests were made following a complaint by a Congress worker.

BJP's drama outdated, says former CM

ENS @Bengaluru

FORMER Chief Minister Siddaramaiah hit out at the BJP after a person claiming to be a Congress party member confessed to throwing eggs at his car during his visit to Kodagu on Thursday.

"If the person who threw the egg was a Congress worker, why did BJP MLA Appachu Ranjan have to go to the police station late at night to get him released? Was he released on the condition that he should claim himself to be a Congressman?" the former CM asked. Siddaramaiah said if the person who threw eggs was a Congressman, he be jailed. "Why are BJP leaders trying to protect him? All such drama of BJP is outdated," he added.

NO REGRETS

Meanwhile, speaking to media-persons, the former CM said he had not expressed regrets over the stand taken by the Congress government on the Veerashaiva Lingayat issue.

On Thursday, Jagadguru Rambhapuri Peetha seer Prasanna Veerasomeshwara Swamy said that during his first visit to the mutt, Siddaramaiah regretted launching the movement for a separate Lingayat religion. The seer said Siddaramaiah had told him that some people had misled him over the issue.

"I have only explained to Swamiji what had happened during that time and not expressed regret. I told him that it had all started after Shamanur Shivashankarappa had given an application demanding a Veerashaiva religion," the former CM mentioned.

Police on Saturday said a woman found dead on railway tracks near Avadi railway station on Thursday was a 29-year-old Odisha native research scholar of IIT-M. Police suspect she might have slipped and fell or jumped from a train. She stayed at the institute's hostel in Adyar

No foul play in Jaya death: AIIMS

7-member board, formed on SC order, says treatment as per medical practice

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Chennai

A medical board constituted based on the order of the Supreme Court to provide expert opinion on the treatment given to former Chief Minister J Jayalalithaa at the Apollo Hospital has concluded that "the treatment was per correct medical practice and no errors have been found in the care provided."

The apex court on November 30, 2021, directed the All India Institute of Medical Sciences (AIIMS) to constitute a board of doctors after Apollo Hospitals submitted a plea in the court to constitute a medical board to help the Justice Arumugasamy Commission, which was inquiring into the death of the late AIADMK leader.

The three-page report of the seven-member board headed by Sandeep Seth, professor, department of cardiology, accessed by TNIE, said the panel heard all statements of witnesses, pored over available documents and reviewed the medical records of the Apollo Hospital, Chennai, where she was admitted.It also went through recordings of radiological investigations and echocardiograms and other records.

According to the sequence of events provided by the report, the former CM was under treatment for diabetes, vertigo, atopicn dermatitis, irritable bowel syndrome, hypothyroid, and chronic bronchitis prior to her admission into Apollo Hospital on September 22, 2016, at 10pm.

The former CM had diabetes beyond control as her HbA1c was in the range of 11 and she was eating grapes, cakes, and sweets prior to her hospitalisation, said the report quoting her doctor. When she was rushed to the hospital, Jayalalithaa was found in an altered sensorium. She was rushed to the emergency room with blood sugar in the range of 560 mg/dl and saturation at 94% and blood pressure at 140/100 mm Hg.

Her condition worsened on September 28 when she was put into intubation, a process where a healthcare provider inserts a tube through a person's mouth or nose, then down into their trachea (airway/windpipe). The tube keeps the trachea open so that air can get through. Post intubation, her lung condition worsened. Tracheostomy, an opening created at the front of the neck so a tube can be inserted into the windpipe (trachea) to help her breathe was done on October 7.

The report also said doctors decided not to perform an angiogram or any intervention on October 14, and that some attempts at speech were possible on November 2. On December 4, Jayalalithaa developed increased breathlessness and ventilation was restarted. She suffered a cardiac arrest and ECMO insertion was done. On December 5 at 11.30pm, she was declared dead after doctors found there was no brain or heart activity, the report said.

Muslim family offers pada puja to seer in Gadag

RAGHOTTAM KOPPAR @Gadag

A Muslim family from Gadag town invited Swaroopananda Bharati seer of Omkar ashram, Kyarekoppa, for pada puja. The seer also had lunch with the family and blessed them. The photos and videos of pada puja went viral on social media as the state has been witnessing disturbing events in the recent past.

The seer visited the Sikhandar Badekhan's family on Saturday and the Badekhan couple performed the puja according to the seer's tradition and distributed prasad to the people present on the occasion.

A member of the Muslim family offers pada puja to the seer in Gadag

People from both the communities participated in the puja and praised the family for such a step. It was not a surprising incident to the neighbours as the seer has been visiting the Badekhan family during Shravana for the past 10 years. However, this time a few pictures and videos went viral on social media and many people got to know about it. Badekhan is a retired professor and he has been a devotee of Saroopananda seer for many years.

Badekhan's family also worshipped Lord Shiva. They perform namaz as well as puja and invite people from both the communities.

Vijayakumar Katti, a resident, said, "We are happy to see such a rare kind of incident. When we heard about the seer visiting the Badekhan family in our area, we came to see. This family is giving a good message to society."

Sikhandar said, "We needed a guru to bless us and we found a guru in Swaroopananda seer. He visits our house every year during Shravana and performs puja and blesses us. Our relatives also come every time when the seer visits."

The seer said, "Sikhandar is a Muslim but he always believes that all traditions are equal. If everybody believes in a guru and knows what this world is, there will be no fights among anybody. Humanity is the same everywhere."

Groceries, water denied to family

"MY father was deeply affected mentally by the boycott and died in 2014. Even after his death, Siddagouda has shown no remorse and refuses to budge", says Vijay Gouda, son of Venku Gouda.

"They are all our own community members. But now since we have been ostracised, they have told the villagers not to talk to us. Another person from our village, Nagappa Nagu Gouda has also been banished," said Gange Banta Gouda, mother of Vijay.

No shop in the village sells groceries to this family and even drinking water is not made available to them. The family brings groceries from Avarsa village.

Vijay said the family has lodged police complaints twice but the complaints have only fallen on deaf ears.

Siddegouda, the chief of Harvada village community, refuted the allegations saying that his cousin has not been banished from the village. "We only told them that they have shown disrespect to us," he said.

'GOVT MUST EDUCATE ANMs NOT TO ALTER AGE OF TEEN MOMs'

BALA CHAUHAN @Bengaluru

THE state, through its ground force like the departments of health, education, women and child development and Panchayat Raj "should converge its efforts and arrest the social evil of teen marriage," said Nina Nayak, former member of National Commission for Protection of Child Rights, responding to the report 'Married at 15, this young widow has 2 kids' that appeared in TNIE on Saturday.

> The government should set up a cell in every district to collect real time data on child marriage, analyse it and provide support services to empower the teen mothers
> Meena Jain, former chairperson, Child Welfare Committee

She added that such news reports will build pressure on the government to halt the practice while accepting the social reality. "It is the duty of the state to sensitise and empower the Auxiliary Nursing Midwifery (ANMs), Asha, Anganwadi workers, Block Education Officers, teachers to accept the social reality of teen marriage and early motherhood and not indulge in falsehoods and raise the age of these mothers (on Thayi cards) to fit in the set policies," said Nayak.

Adiss Arnold, Project Director and Secretary, People's Movement for Self-Reliance (PMSR), said though Karnataka has a "strong framework of policies to ensure the safety and rights of the girl child, it continues in some rural areas. In Chamarajanagar district, child marriage is prevalent mostly among one OBC community and an ST community."

Woman ill, carried on pole for 2 km

DIVYA CUTINHO @ Mangaluru

A 70-year-old ailing woman was carried on a pole for about two km to reach the main road on the way to a hospital at Kadaba taluk in Dakshina Kannada district. The incident occured on August 19. Kamala of Ballakka near Kallugudde in the Noojibalthila grama panchayat limits was suffering from leg injury and could not walk. So her family members tied a cloth to a pole and carried her to the main road where a vehicle was waiting. The family members said that the area witnesses frequent movement of wild elephants and hence it's too risky for people to move around. But, panchayat officials say that when there is an alternative road, the residents are creating an unnecessary issue.

2 drivers die, 60 students hurt in accident

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Athani/ Belagavi

A college bus carrying the students collided with a goods truck on the outskirts of Athani town in Belagavi district on Saturday morning. Drivers of both the vehicles died on the spot, but luckily the students escaped with injuries in the incident which shook the entire town.

The mangled remains of the college bus in Athani on Saturday | EXPRESS

The bus belonging to Banajwad Residential PU College, Athani, was carrying about 60 students from the hostel to the college early in the morning. But, a speeding goods truck which rammed the bus on Athani-Kagwadi road.

The driver of the college bus, Raghunath Avatade (46), a resident of Kanak Nagar, Athani, who is also an ex-serviceman and driver of goods truck Maliksab Mujawar (23) of Kalaburagi village of Jamakhandi taluk, died on the spot. The teacher, Anita Angolkar, was severely injured and is said to be critical. About 21 students suffered major injuries in the accident, while 35 students escaped with minor injuries.

THE freebie fracas is playing out. The hi-decibel contest of allusions, assumptions and allegations continues to occupy prime time– and mind you, no party can claim to be innocent of the practice. Dialogue has been ousted by radioactive rhetoric ricocheting across the political theatre.

The occasion calls for a broader and deeper discourse. It is easy to mistake public attention around the issue as episodic and limited to freebies. For sure, as this column has observed there is a need to define what a freebie is, debate its costs and the need for constitutional guardrails. More pertinently, public angst also represents anger about public expenditure and its oversight, how taxpayer monies are used by various governments.

It is now a decade since states overtook the centre in expenditure. Between 2016 and 2021 the total expenditure of governments, centre and states, went up from ₹37.06 lakh crore to ₹64.70 lakh crore. Expenditure at the hands of state governments went up from ₹23.60 lakh crore to ₹42.11 lakh crore. How well was this used?

The fundamental assumption in a federal system is that people elect MLAs to represent their cause in states. Do the elected have the time and inclination to deliberate and debate on how taxpayer monies are used?

The harsh reality is that there is little space for the elected to represent those who elected them, to contest the claims of the regime in power, and debate the allocation of public funds and implementation of programmes.

A recent study by PRS Legislative shows that between 2016 and 2021, the legislative assemblies of states met for an average of 25 days in a year. Drill down the data, and the lack of diligence is stark. In 2021 the states together spent ₹42.11 lakh crore — that is ₹11,537 crore a day or ₹480 crore per hour. The legislative assemblies were in session for an average of just 21 days – down from 30 days in 2016.

Worse, 17 of the 29 states met for less than 20 days and five were in session for less than 10 days Five states – BJP and opposition ruled states of Karnataka, Odisha, Manipur, Punjab and Uttar Pradesh – have rules stipulating minimum number of days the state assembly will be in session. None of the states, not even in a single year in the six-year period, met with the minimum standard.

The track record of the state governments in engaging in the sacred process of democracy is shocking. It is a testimony to indifference and insufficient attention. To appreciate, consider the state of Punjab. The state's debt to state output (GSDP) ratio was 53.3 per cent in 2021. Its fiscal deficit was 4.6 per cent, and a fifth of the state's revenues was spent on interest costs.

Arguably the state of the finances calls for attention. Punjab has rules stipulating that the assembly will meet for a minimum of 40 days every year. The state assembly met for only 11 days in 2021, and its average between 2016 and 2021 was 14 days.

Uttar Pradesh, the most populated state in India with over 220 million people, is another case in point. Its debt to GSDP ratio in 2021 was 34.9 per cent, and its fiscal deficit stood at 4.3 per cent – its expenditure on just the social sector was estimated at ₹1.93 lakh crore for 2021. Was the money spent well? The answer lies in unasked questions on the use of taxpayer monies.

The rules state that the Uttar Pradesh assembly should meet for a minimum of 90 days in a year. In 2021, the assembly was in session for 17 days, and between 2016 and 2021 the average duration for sessions was 21 days.

The harsh reality is that there is little debate on the allocation of public funds and the implementation of programmes. This is reflected in the persistence of insufficiency, incapacity and losses across sectors. There are over 10 lakh vacant teacher posts, of which 2.48 lakh are in Bihar. There is a shortfall of over 17,500 specialists in rural health centres – of which over 2000 is in Uttar Pradesh and 1200 in Odisha. Over 5 lakh police posts are vacant – UP, West Bengal, Bihar, and Madhya Pradesh leading the list.

There is also apathy about accountability. State Discoms reported an average of around ₹74,000 crore in losses between 2017 and 2020 – that is ₹200 crore every day. In many states, nearly half the state public sector enterprises do not file annual financial statements. For instance, in Telangana, of the 66 functioning PSEs, only 30 furnished their accounts for audit. In Jharkhand, only 16 of 31 filed their accounts for the CAG audit. Are government companies immune to the provisions of the Companies Act? Do state governments owe no answers to taxpayers?

India is at an inflection point. The momentum for India's next growth push depends largely on how well the states deliver. Nearly every square kilometre of India is governed by the states. India's states are as large and populous as independent nations. The evolution in scale and complexity calls for a review and overhaul of how the world's largest democracy conducts governance. India's aspirations rest on how well the political class resets oversight, transparency and accountability.

BJP OR CONGRESS, DUOPOLISTIC DEMOCRACY DICTATES DECISION MAKING

POWER & POLITICS

IN a new age when nuisance makes news, no news is good news. News famine caused by opinion shortage and intellectual imbecility, even a routine restructuring of a party setup takes Page One by storm and is food for prime time pandemonium. A debate on 'who is in and who is out and why' is today's benchmark for testing the knowledge and connectivity of twattling tele-pundits. Ever since politics became a single-man act, party forums have been losing relevance. Only Constitutional provisions force parties to constitute these bodies for form's sake.

Many political mahouts with elephantine support were put out of form last week; on August 17, the BJP chief JP Nadda reconstituted its 11-member Parliamentary Board and 19-member Central Election Committee (CEC)—only a few months remain before he takes a bow. His predecessor Amit Shah, too, had reshaped the party hierarchy. For a few years, both the bodies have rarely met or followed the party constitution rules. The inclusion and exclusion of a couple of individuals are being seen as a sinister signal signifying social re-engineering. Reading the saffron tea leaves indicates the rejig was ostensibly about shaping a new leadership and putting an election-ready team in place for 2024. Amongst the new faces were middle level Dalit leaders and representatives of minority and backward communities. Some of these worthies had lost either the Lok Sabha or Assembly elections, but the leadership inked them in as sanguine satraps. The decomposition of BJPs' two governing bodies indicates a deliberate decline into faceless fawning when maximum decisions are endorsed with minimum discussion. Since PM Modi gets credit and discredit for taking popular and unpopular decisions, analysts felt his touch in the new choices. And why not? After all, it is Modi Magic that made the BJP numerically the world's largest party. It is under his aegis that it won over 300 Lok Sabha seats, ringing in a single party majority after three decades. Nearly 1400 of 4000-odd MLAs are his political spawn. His magnetic moxie brought his party 36 per cent of votes last polled. It rules over half the States. Modi's admirers assert that the BJP needs him more than he needs it; therefore, it is his undeniable right to sculpt its contours whichever way he chooses. Its official platforms are now just synchronised stagecraft with a handpicked audience demurring to one way dialogue.

Dropped by Nadda were veterans Nitin Gadkari and Shivraj Singh Chouhan. Since both PB and the CEC rarely met during the past six years, they or other members hardly made any contribution to the deliberations. So, neither forums nor individuals matter much. For the first time, a politically and administratively active former party chief like Gadkari has been ousted from decisive party forums. Close to the RSS leadership, he is known to call a spade a spade—sometimes even a pickaxe. He is arguably the best performing minister in Modi Sarkar. But the changes indicate a shift in Maharashtra's political cartography; though Devendra Fadnavis was appointed just a member of the CEC, he is perceived as the sole Maharashtra leader in the new coalition. There is a mystery to the method. For example, Modi has selectively relaxed the 75 years age limit for party and government nabobs. Nadda picked the 79 year old B S Yeddyurappa from Karnataka and 77 year old Satya Narain Jatiya from Madhya Pradesh. Taller leaders like Yogi Adityanath were ignored in favour of Assam's Sarbananda Sonowal. Sudha Yadav, who lost elections twice in Haryana got preference over other known women netas like Smriti Irani—her husband, Deputy Commandant Sukhbir Singh Yadav of the BSF is a Kargil martyr. Besides the electoral emphasis, the nationalist credentials of the new members make them significant signals in the overall picture. Iqbal Singh Lalpura, a former IPS officer from Punjab, joined the BJP only in 2012. After he arrested Bhindranwale, he became famous for his no nonsense approach in handling terrorism. Telangana saffronite K Laxman got a seat on the high table for aggressively promoting Hindutva in Telangana; he was instrumental in getting the BJP four Lok Sabha seats. In 2014, he earned the deplorable distinction of calling Sania Mirza, then the State's brand ambassador, "Pakistan's daughter-in-law" for the crime of marrying Pakistani cricketer Shoaib Malik. It is obvious that in the new BJP constellation, the Gadkaris, Chouhans, Scindias, etcetera, have become meteors of past plurality.

Now, getting a membership in a notional highest decision making body of any political party just entitles the glorified viziers to a visiting card and some social respectability. Most of them are rubber stamps of the supreme leader or his or her authorised signatories. Hardly any outfit holds regular meetings of party forums. It was Indira Gandhi who authored the trend of turning important organisational bodies into symbiotic symposiums signifying servitude; by ignoring constitutional precedents of holding regular elections for AICC President and constituting the Congress Parliamentary Board when one of her nominees lost. In contrast, the BJP does hold state level party polls, although the process has been diluted, with the party president replacing state chiefs as decided at the very top. The latest modifications in the structural collective indicates that the party boss has usurped the powers of elected bodies. Articles XXV and XXVI of the BJP Constitution define the appointment and powers of BJP's 11 member PB and 19 member CEC. They say that "The National Executive shall set up a Parliament Board comprising party President and ten other members, one of whom will be the leader of the party in the Parliament with the Party President as its chairman. One of the general secretaries would be nominated as its secretary", and the "National Executive shall set up a Central Election Committee (CEC) consisting of all the members of the PB and eight other members elected by the National Executive as per rules". This time, the turn in the road is a sharp curve. It's not the National Executive that reshaped the PB and the CEC last week. The president did, perhaps using an invisible resolution authorising him to do so. However, there remain four vacancies in the CEC, the forum where the names of candidates for the next general elections are finalised. Obviously, the BJP, like other parties, is moving from collective leadership to directed democracy. Earlier, parties made a leader. Now leaders make or maul the party. The Duopolistic Democratic structure has replaced collective confabulation as the chapter and verse of the iambic meter of Indian politics. Perhaps it's only poetic justice that the emphasis has shifted from the Oneness of Many to Many Under One.

EZHIMALA, AN ANCIENT CAPITAL, FORGOTTEN

A COUNTRY OF MANY GODS

DR JAYARAM PODUVAL
Head, Department of Art History & Aesthetics, Faculty of Fine Arts, The Maharaja Sayajirao University of Baroda, Gujarat

IN the '70s and '80s, Ezhimala was the favourite destination for picnicking for the youngsters of my town in North Kerala. To reach Ezhimala, we would take a ride to Ramantali, a sleepy village in the valley of Ezhimala. From there, it is a long walk toward the hill. Reaching the top, on the northern side of the hill, we see the lush green valleys on both sides and the Arabian Sea on the west. Walking on the forest path atop the hill towards the south gives you a panoramic view of the whole region with a few rivers entering the sea, creating natural ports, and the contour of the land making a beautiful bay. In the 1980s, a small ship abandoned somewhere on the Konkan coast floated down to Ezhimala, creating panic, suspicion and excitement among the locals. The story of the ancient Greek shipwreck resurfaced, forcing the local picnicking population to strain their eyes to look for a wooden mast somewhere in the blue expanse of the sea. Ibn Batuta did mention the interesting feature of this area which he considered dangerous as pirates inhabited it. The cargo ships were compelled to land here for the reason that if anything went wrong with the ship, it would float naturally back to Ezhimala, and pirates would not spare anybody claiming that the loot was a godsend gift to them.

The foundation legend of the dynasty that ruled this area also mentions a broken ship making its way to Ezhimala. It says after the destruction of Dwarka and the death of Krishna, one of his wives escaped on a boat and came to Ezhimala. Her son was Ramakhata Musaka, alias Iramakuda Muvar, the founder of the Musaka dynasty, which ruled North Malabar before the Kolattiris. The mystery over the Musakas initiates from the name of the dynasty itself. Sarkar and many historians consider it Musika, the Sanskrit word for rat and their abode as Eli mala, a Malayalam equivalent for "the mountain of the rats". Chirakkal T Balakrishnan Nair, a descendant of the Kolattiri dynasty and a local historian, explains that the name is derived from the Sanskrit word Musaka, denoting a kind of Sirisa Tree [Mimosa Sirisa]. According to Balakrishnan Nair, the hill should be pronounced Ezhimala, meaning seven hills. He again suggests that the Kolattiris, the later rulers of the region, must have appropriated the insignia of the Musakas, depicting a boat, a bunch of Musaka flowers and a sword. Sarkar agrees with VK Subrahmanya Ayer that the capital of Musakas was at Kolam, which Ayer identifies as Kollam or Pantalayini Kollam, 30 km north of Kozhikode, the port city. Ayer, however, could not comprehend the absence of epigraphic references to Musakas in this region and the existence of the same in the Kannur district around Ezhimala.

The artists of the local ritual dance Teyyam refer in their incantations to Kolaswarupam--the landmass--the present-day Kannur District. Balakrishnan Nair argues that Kolam should be considered as the kingdom's name and not as the capital of Musakas. There are many towns in Kannur District which can claim the position of the erstwhile capital. The word tali in north Kerala denotes a capital city. We have the example of Tali from Kozhikode, the capital of the Samutiris. The small village in the valley of Ezhimala, called Ramantali [Raman + Tali, meaning the capital of Rama], was probably the first capital of Musakas under Ramakuda Musaka [Ramakuda Muvar], the founder of the dynasty.

Extensive reference to the Musika or Musakas can be derived from the Sanskrit poem by Atula titled Musaka Vamsam, written in the 11th century. The kavya does mention the Musakas as the descendants of Musakas of Haihayadesa on the foothills of the Vindhya region. The poem provides the names of a few kings including Vikrama Rama. The inscription, datable to 928 CE from the Narasimha temple at Narayan Kannur on the western phase of Ezhimala, mentions Vikrama Rama as the Koil Adhikari [crown Prince]. Sarga XIV of Musaka Vamsa mentions Ramakhata Jayamani of the Musaka dynasty as deputing his nephew to assist the Kerala king in his war against the Cholas, which can be authenticated further by the Rajadhiraja of the Chola dynasty mentioning in his inscription the defeat of one Iramaguda.

The lack of epigraphic records and other source materials created difficulties in reconstructing the genealogy of this dynasty and other details like the location of their capital city. The presence of a royal inscription at Narasimha Temple at Narayan Kannur about Manigramam, a powerful merchant guild of ancient India who controlled the Indian Ocean trade, points to the region's importance. Moreover, the popularity of the Narayan Kannur temple and the Sankara Narayana temple demonstrates the connection the local population had with their ancient capital, Ramantali, the capital of Rama of the Musaka dynasty. An ancient capital, forgotten.

Whither women respect

This is with reference to the editorial (Respect for women a sham violence is reality). It is really disturbing to pay lip service to the all-round development of women without doing anything for their upliftment. Recently, the Gujrat government released 11 convicts undergoing life imprisonment in the Bikis Bano case and a Kerala court granting bail to a person in a sexual harassment case has come in for a lot of flak from the people across the country. The Prime Minister has spoken about the right and dignity of women and the remission sends a wrong message that even gang-rape and mass-murder convicts become eligible for leniency from the state.

Student's death

This has reference to the news "Student dead after teacher beats him for late fee in UP". Of late we come across many incidents where the teachers resort to mindless corporeal punishments resulting in grievous injuries or death of a student. The death of 13-year-old Brijesh Varma in Bahraich in Shravasti district is tragic since the teacher had beaten him until the student became unconscious. That school principal threatened him if he made the incident public. His parents received the threat too. This is cruel. The reason for such cruelty is the student did not bring the school fee though it was remitted by his brother online. Only exemplary penal action against the teacher and the principal could compensate the death of the student later in a hospital. A teacher should be the epitome of kindness, patience compassion and love. Strangely such bitter incidents bring a bad name to the teachers' community.

Kejriwal must sack Sisodia

Arvind Kejriwal's image as a crusader against corruption is getting eroded by the day. The tragedy is that political parties in power have their own convenient definitions of corruption. Even pre-election inducements are sought to be interpreted as welfare measures! Now, for the latest, the CBI has registered a case against Kejriwal's deputy CM Manish Sisodia for allegedly favouring certain liquor merchants in allotting tender. It will be only sensible for Kejriwal to do some urgent damage control by getting his deputy's resignation. TNIE's journalistic probe has also done its bit in digging into the corruption allegation. It's therefore definitely not a case of BJP's political vendetta as AAP alleges ('Scam scent takes CBI to Sisodia's house', Aug 20). That makes the charge even more credible.

P Mangalachandran, Kannur

Political vendetta

Apropos of 'Scam scent takes CBI to Sisodia's house' (NIE August 20 2022). Alleged irregularities in the National Capital Territory's 2021-22 excise policy have had the CBI knock on the doors of Deputy Chief Minister Manish Sisodia, besides raiding 30 other locations across India. Central governments misusing central agencies to settle scores with their political opponents is nothing new in India. Practically every government that ruled from New Delhi has used these agencies to take political vendetta to various heights. The incumbent ruling disposition is no exception to the rule. It would have been more than ideal and would have contributed to cleansing of national conscience if these agencies were also given the charge of cases that threaten to tear asunder the very fabric of wholesome nationhood and national growth, and not limit themselves to investigating financial irregularities alone. Certain acts of omission and commission, worse than financial irregularities indulged in by certain people and agencies across India, strike at the very roots of conscientious nationhood, and should be treated as scams too. They ought to be looked into by these agencies.

Dowry death crimes shall get iron hand: SC

Apex court says strong message must go in society that offences under Dowry Prohibition Act be dealt with sternly

SHRUTI KAKKAR @ New Delhi

WHILE confirming the conviction of a mother and father in-law for the dowry death of a woman who died within a year of marriage, the Supreme Court on Friday reiterated that offences like dowry death have a serious impact upon society and a strong message must be sent that the person who commits such an offence shall be dealt with iron hands.

"The offence under Section 304B – offence of dowry death is the offence against society. Such offences have a serious impact upon society. Keeping in mind the aforesaid aspects, imposition of sentence for the offence of dowry death is required to be considered. A strong message must go in the society that a person who commits such an offence under the Dowry Prohibition Act shall be dealt with an iron hand," the court said.

The observation was made by a bench of Justices M R Shah and B V Nagarathna in an appeal preferred by Ajhola Devi against Jharkhand High Court's order of convicting her and her husband for the offences under Section 304B (Dowry Death) read with Section 201 (causing disappearance of evidence of offence or giving false information to screen offender) of IPC. The High Court had affirmed the Trial Court's order which had awarded a sentence of 10 years of Rigorous Imprisonment to the couple.

The SC bench upheld the 10-year RI awarded to Ajhola Devi and her husband — mother and father in-law of the deceased woman — by the trial court and confirmed by the Jharkhand High Court for dowry death of their daughter-in-law.

Throwing light on the intent of the Legislature while incorporating Section 304B (Dowry Death) in the IPC, the Court said, "The legislative intent of incorporating Section 304B was to curb the menace of dowry death with a firm hand. In dealing with cases under Section 304B, such legislative intent has to be kept in mind."

To affirm the High Court's order the bench had considered the aspect of the prosecution establishing and proving the demand of dowry, the deceased dying within a period of one year of her marriage and failure of the defence to prove their false case/theory of the deceased dying because of diarrhoea.

Turning down the couple's plea of granting them lesser punishment taking into consideration their age, the bench said, "Therefore, in the facts and circumstances of the case, imposing 10 years RI cannot be said to be disproportionate to the offence committed. No interference of this court is called for so far as the imposition of sentence of 10 years RI is concerned."

TEJASHWI YADAV

PENCHANT FOR 'RIGHT' TIMING IN POLITICS & CRICKET

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR
@New Delhi

SOURAV ROY

Deputy CM for second time in seven years

For the second time in seven years, Tejashwi is Bihar's deputy chief minister again. He is now in the care of his "Paltu Chacha", the very moniker that he would use to previously describe Nitish

A FEW months before Lalu Prasad Yadav put together the grand alliance with the JDU's Nitish Kumar to take on the BJP in the 2015 Bihar assembly elections, he considered it an opportune moment to introduce his two sons, Tejpratap and Tejashwi, to the rough and tumble of state politics. It did not take the brothers too long to expose themselves as utter novices if not completely unsuited to Bihar's political cesspool.

While Tejpratap, who won the Mahua assembly seat, was found to be in a perpetual "state of drift", the younger Tejashwi, who took the Raghopur constituency (in Vaishali district), was seen to hold some promise. Both were school dropouts.

Tejpratap quit middle school in his ancestral Gopalganj, while Tejashwi sought to hone his cricketing skills, dropping out of Delhi Public School without taking the Class X examination.

When the mahagathbandhan (Grand Alliance) experiment failed, after Nitish broke the alliance with Lalu and the Congress, Tejashwi, who was deputy chief minister in the 2015 coalition government, worked hard to master the slippery slope of politics. Tejpratap, however, continued to live indifferently. Like his father, Tejashwi has also had a brush with the law when the CBI questioned him in 2017 in connection with an alleged IRCTC scam.

But it was only after Tejashwi tied the nuptial knot with his old flame Rachel Godinho in 2021 that fortune deigned to his smile on him. Today, Tejashwi has wrested back the reins of state politics, having teamed up with Bihar's best known palturam (turncoat) 'Kursi' Kumar (Nitish) to give a stunning blow to the latter's estranged suitor, the BJP. For the second time in seven years, Tejashwi is Bihar's deputy chief minister again. He is now in the care of his "Paltu Chacha", the very moniker that he would use to previously describe Nitish.

NEWSMAKER

At 32, Tejashwi has begun to mature in politics. The caste census issue helped push Tejashwi to begin a dialogue with the chief minister, who was itching to look for another partner. Meeting behind closed doors in official chamber of CM in the state assembly, the two worked out the nitty-gritties of working together again. The terms of the deal, of course, was to include elder brother Tejpratap on the council of ministers. And it worked out wisely recently. Tejashwi knows that "timing" is important both in politics and cricket. Working on Nitish to break with the BJP was no mean achievement. The coup de grace was timed – and delivered – to perfection.

Railways to bring system to report bosses' behaviour

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR @
New Delhi

NOW, the common subordinates working in various departments of Indian Railways can report their bosses' behaviour and administrative conduct to the Union Ministry of Railway, albeit confidentially.

In a novel initiative that could be welcomed by junior grade employees, the Ministry of Railway, through a circular issued to all General Managers (GMs) on August 18 has asked the all GMs for proper compliance of this directive.

The railway has enabled a link online to receive the common subordinates' feedbacks on their behaviour and working styles of their bosses.

Citing this initiative to create a database for multi-source feedback of officers in the Annual Performance Appraisal Report (APAR), the railway board has decided to make it applicable from the fiscal year of 2022-23.

According to railway sources, the feedback received from the common subordinates will be anonymously recorded in the data base of the official. "There shall be no way to trace back the feedback to the superiors or subordinates, who will submit it," the order of the Ministry of Railway stated.

The decision is aimed at making the entire process more effective in improving working efficiency amongst the employees by way of their boss' good and encouraging administrative behaviour.

At present, the Indian Railways has around 13 lakh employees, including more than 10000 gazetted officers in various departments.

Making this move easily applicable across the railways and its PSUs, common subordinates have been requested to give fair remarks or grading without any prejudice about the behaviour and other working features of their bosses.

The entire exercise would be conducted to create a database for multi-source feedback of officers generating the APAR strictly confidentially. Many railway subordinates hailing this move first such good one said that it will create an encouraging ambience in the offices of railways with subordinates. Railway sources said that around 20,000 officials will come under the scanner for this APAR. This has been decided by following the pattern of appraisal of IAS and IPS and other all Indian service officials.

Divorce settlement: Govt body says husband's income not personal info

DILIP SINGH KSHATRIYA @
Ahmedabad

IN a case related to maintenance of a divorced woman, the Central Information Commission has said that details sought by her on the income of her husband cannot be considered "personal information." The CIC ordered Gujarat's Jamnagar Income Tax Office to provide information related to the husband's income to his ex-wife free-of-cost.

Ambika Bhatia had sought details of the gross income, not taxable income of her husband, for assessment years 2013-14 to 2020-21 for her pending court case. The information can enable her to claim fair maintenance for herself and her daughter under the Domestic Violence Act and Hindu Marriage Act.

CIC Saroj Punani passed the remarkable order with an observation that IT return details are third-party information and that there was no need to furnish them to any third party. "However, the said case involves a maintenance case. Therefore, information regarding the income of the husband cannot be considered personal information," Punani said.

Ambika Bhatia, a Jamnagar native , filed an online RTI application on October 21, 2020, seeking information relating to the income tax returns of her husband Sanket Thapar for the assessment years beginning 2013-14 to 2020-21. She wants to defend herself in the case pending in the court and for claiming the fair amount of maintenance for herself and her minor daughter.

Senior Advocate Suraj Shukla said IT returns details were crucial in deciding the maintenance amount that the wife needed to get. "If the applicant gets this information, she can justify the maintenance amount for which she has filed a lawsuit before the court," said Shukla.

Pankti Jog, who is working with Right to Information Gujarat Pahel NGO, said the Jamnagar Income Tax office cited a Supreme Court case and had denied information to Ambika Bhatia. The office had argued that information related to the third party cannot be given even if the applicant is the wife of the third party. "A legal applicant becomes a third party," said the Jamnagar IT office. The CIC after looking at various judgments directed the office to furnish information on the "net Income of her husband, free of any cost within 15 days from the date of the order."

Earlier, amid a rise of RTI applications for divorce and maintenance claims; CIC says that wife cannot seek details of IT Returns of the Husband. The CIC had stated that the details of the IT returns are personal in nature and hence exempted from disclosure to the wife.

Now, avail ayurveda, other wellness services in trains

NEW DELHI: Amid India's emergence as a sought-after destination in Asia for availing traditional medical services, Indian Railways have started working on the concept of promoting 'medical value travel'. In a first, the railways through IRCTC will provide traditional and herbal medical therapies for the tourists from across the world as well as within the country.

According to S G Ghosh, DGM, IRCTC, India is home to ayurveda and unani, naturopathy and other indigenous therapies spread across different states. "India is now ranked 3rd in wellness focused countries in the Asia Pacific," Ghosh said in a statement. As per a conservative figure, 14 million medical tourists arrive in India and they can now avail facility of special trains to reach traditional medicine destinations.

Women more prone to heart trouble: Study

KAVITA BAJELI-DATT @ New Delhi

WOMEN in their 50s are more prone to hypertension than men in the same age group, said a new study by the Public Health Foundation of India (PHFI), busting the myth that cardiovascular diseases are "men's problem."

The study, which was published in BMC Public Health journal, said that even more worrying is that physicians swayed by the myth tend to under-test and under-treat women for hypertension and other cardiovascular pathologies.

The report, Gender difference in the prevalence of hypertension among Indians across various age groups: information from multiple nationally representative samples, said that men had a higher prevalence of hypertension up to 50 years; after that, females had higher rates.

The PHFI study, perhaps the first to comprehensively demonstrate that cardio-metabolic risk in Indian women surpasses men after 50 years of age, and thus helped in "busting the myth" that Indian women are always at much lower risk than males, said, "this evidence should inform the Indian healthcare system to prioritise older women for screening and treatment of hypertension."

According to the data shared by the Union Health Ministry, one in four Indian adults is hypertensive, but only about 10 percent of them have their blood pressure under control.

Speaking with this newspaper about the study, PHFI President Prof K Srinath Reddy said the main reason is that women in India exhibit higher levels of overweight and obesity compared to men after the age of 40 years. As they are unaware of hypertension, they rarely seek medical attention.

"Overweight, obesity and visceral fat levels predict hypertension, diabetes and cardiovascular risk. With menopause, protective hormonal influences abate and iron levels increase as menstruation ceases, resulting in increased blood viscosity," he said.

Dr Reddy said even in western countries, cardiovascular disease in women remained an area of neglect for many decades. But they were able to create more awareness and bring more attention to women's heart health.

"Untreated hypertension can lead to heart attacks, brain strokes, and heart and kidney failure. There is a need for early detection and effective control in women and men. Such awareness needs to be built up in India too, among the public and healthcare providers at different levels of the health system," Dr Reddy said.

He said the best solution is that women should remain physically active, keep their body weight under control and aim to reduce stress levels.

Time has come to prioritise women's cardiovascular health

FIFA ban: Does judicial intervention in sports amount to legal outreach?

SHRUTI KAKKAR @ New Delhi

SPORTS is all about the excitement of competing to win and excel against the best. To maintain this spirit, it's imperative for the sports bodies to carry out their administration transparently by abiding by the National Sports Code.

Various judgments have underscored the need for national sports federation (NSFs) to carry their administration as per the Sports Code, however persistent recalcitrance of these entities to abide with the rules of the games has resulted in courts directing the affairs of these entities to be put in hands of the SC-appointed Committee of Administrators (CoA).

NSFs under CoA

Earlier this week, FIFA had suspended the AIFF citing "third party interference" because of the appointment of CoA. In the latest development, the SC bench headed by CJI NV Ramana on one hand asked stakeholders to put on hold Delhi HC's order and not take over the affairs of Indian Olympic Association but a bench led by Justice Chandrachud affirmed HC's order of placing Hockey India under CoA. The apex council of Table Tennis Federation of India faced the axe of suspension and rivalry within the Judo Federation of India had also come under Delhi HC's scanner.

Amidst the tussle between NSFs, Court's attempt to ensure "good governance" by these bodies and Centre's stand that appointment of CoA's can result in India losing chance to participate in international sports events, this paper spoke to few legal experts on whether court's intervention in affairs of sports federations amounts to judicial outreach?

Justice Govind Mathur, Former Allahabad HC, CJ said, "Courts must refrain themselves from interfering in day to day working of these bodies, be slow in interfering functions of sports organisations even in extreme circumstances."

"After years of mismanagement and corruption in our sports bodies with no oversight by the Governments, the only option available to save our sports and protect our athletes is the Courts. Supreme Court and High Court has done yeoman service to clean up these neta run fiefdoms, wonderful performances we have seen from our men and women despite these sports bodies who have created obstacles for years," Senior Advocate Gopal Sankaranarayanan said.

Speaking to this reporter, Senior Advocate Sanjoy Ghose said that it is common knowledge that there is something rotten with the state of sports administration in India and governments are making efforts to clean up. However vested interests are too powerful as often politicians are at the helm of such bodies. In such circumstances, judiciary is sadly the only institution that can actually rescue such bodies and restore Indian Sport's glory.

CBI probing excise policy labyrinth

IT is alleged that Arora got in touch with Birender Pal Singh of Brindco Sales, his son Aman Dhal and Sameer Mahendru of Indo-Spirits and introduced them to AAP politicians. It is alleged that thereafter he got them in touch with then excise commissioner Ravi Dhawan, and subsequently with Dev and Garg. When he was excise chief, Dhawan allegedly was in touch with liquor barons during the framing of the policy.

The policy papers drafted by these top officials were sent to Deputy Chief Minister Manish Sisodia. When Sisodia allegedly went through the motions of seeking public opinion, sources said the letters sent by the public in response were actually believed to be drafted by AAP members.

Arora's associates Nitin Kapoor, Arpan Sood, Dalbeer Maan and his son Virat Maan were running zones "for Reddy" (believed to refer to an MP from the south).

When Dhawan was transferred out in October 2020, IAS officer Arava Gopi Krishna, another accused in the liquor scam, took charge as commissioner of excise. It is alleged that he used to meet liquor barons and middlemen at his residence at odd hours and was also in touch with Arora.

Apart from kickbacks in cash, two Aralias DLF flats in Gurugram were given to the babus who rolled out the policy.

The CBI is looking for a person from Aligarh, named Singla, who used to frequent Dev's office at the Delhi Secretariat during the policy formation. Garg was also part of the meetings, sources said. The person also used to meet AAP leaders, including Sisodia, at their residences. Dev took premature retirement in April 2022. Garg was transferred to Arunachal Pradesh in August this year.

Sources said Arora also "cultivated" four IAS/IPS officers of AGMUT cadre who are allegedly part of infamous "₹100 crore kitty club of Delhi".

TMC leader denied bail, sent to CBI custody

Kolkata: An Asansol court on Saturday rejected TMC leader Anubrata Mondal's bail plea which was submitted citing his health condition. The magistrate remanded Mondal, who was arrested in a cattle smuggling case, to CBI custody for four more days after the agency's lawyer opposed the bail plea saying the accused is an influential person and he may tamper with evidence if granted bail. Mondal was produced in the court after his 14-day CBI custody ended. The magistrate asked his lawyer why didn't he turn up at the CBI's office on several occasions when he visited Kolkata frequently. The lawyer said Mondal was advised bed rest.

2 die in Janmashtami melee at Mathura temple

Devotees suffocate in midnight stampede at Bankey Bihari temple

NAMITA BAJPAI @ Lucknow

AT least two persons were suffocated to death in stampede and several others were rushed to the hospital at the Bankey Bihari temple in Mathura during mangala aarti as part of midnight celebrations of Janmashtami late night on Friday.

"Prima facie, the cause of death is suffocation due to a heavy rush during the mangala aarti," District Magistrate Navneet Singh Chahal said.

The deceased have been identified as a 55-year-old woman from Noida and a 65-year-old devotee from Jabalpur, officials said.

The incident happened when devotees numbering thousands thronged the famous temple to offer prayers and participate in the rituals, packing the temple courtyard to the brim and having very little room to breathe.

The incident happened at around 2 am during the Mangala Aarti as the police had to restrict the entry of devotees after some started fainting inside the temple.

"One devotee fainted at the exit gate of the temple due to which the movement of devotees was restricted. As there was huge crowd, many inside the premises were suffocated due to humidity. Two persons lost their lives," Mathura SP Abhishek Yadav said.

A video shared by local sources showed a massive crowd gathered at the temple with people gasping for air. Police personnel were seen carrying a person, who had apparently fainted due to suffocation from overcrowding.

Earlier in the day, Uttar Pradesh Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath visited the Krishna Janmabhoomi temple in Mathura on the occasion of Janmashtami on Friday.

"Lord Krishna arrived on this earth about 5,000 years ago from today and his 'leelas' are celebrated in every part of the country and the world even today," Adityanath said.

The entire city of Mathura was illuminated with lights on the occasion. Devotees were seen dancing in the midnight celebrations.

Condom wrapper used to bandage head wound at MP health centre

ANURAAG SINGH @ Bhopal

IN a shocking case of negligence, a woman's head wound was dressed with a condom wrapper at a government health centre in Morena district of Madhya Pradesh.

The incident came to light when doctors at Morena District Hospital began changing the dressing of the woman's head injury on Friday. They found that a condom wrapper had earlier been used to dress the same wound.

Further probe revealed that two days back, staff at the Porsa Community Health Centre in the same district had tied a condom wrapper along with cotton on the woman's head, as temporary bandage, to stop bleeding.

Owing to the severity of the wound, the woman, identified as Reshma Bai, was referred to the Morena District Hospital on Friday. That's where the doctors on Friday found the temporary bandage.

"The matter was brought to my notice by journalists, who have also shared with me a video. The woman with a head wound came from Dharamgarh at the Porsa PHC on Wednesday night. After examining the injury, the emergency duty doctor Dr Dharmendra Rajput instructed the ward boy to administer some cardboard-like hard material over the cotton pad to temporarily bandage the wound to stop the bleeding. The ward boy erroneously used a condom packet for the purpose," the district chief medical and health officer said.

Health department officials in Morena added that the concerned ward boy has been attached to another health facility and a show cause notice has been issued to him.

Meanwhile, in adjoining Bhind district, three journalists, who recently reported the story of an old man being taken by his son on a handcart to hospital after the family allegedly failed to get an ambulance despite a phone call, have been booked for reporting a "false" story.

Battle for bossism between top city cops

The differences between Ahmedabad's Commissioner of Police Sanjay Srivastava and Joint Commissioner of Police (Administration) Ajay Choudhary are out in the open. Recently, Srivastava went on leave, handing over top charges to Choudhary, who, as soon as he got the charge, started issuing transfer orders. In Srivastava's absence, J C P Choudhary had transferred 16 assistant sub-inspectors, 7 assistant police constables, and 9 women constables. This did not seem to have gone well with Srivastava, who returned from a holiday, took charge on Thursday, and immediately rescinded the decisions taken by his second in command in his absence.

Former guv compares Modi with Lord Krishna

Senior BJP leader and former governor of Karnataka, Vajubhai Vala (in pic) has become a topic of discussion in Gujarat, on Friday he made a statement about PM Modi in Rajkot where he compared PM Modi to Lord Krishna while addressing a Dharma Sabha in Rajkot on Friday. In the incident which kindled rumours of Vala's re-entry into active politics, he said, "Lord Krishna was fighting against one-sidedness during the Mahabharata kal and the PM is fighting against nepotism in present times." During his speech, he also quoted PM Modi's statement on the fight against corruption and parivarwad in his I-Day speech.

Another ex-Cong MLA to don saffron scarf

As the Gujarat Assembly elections are approaching, Congress leaders are leaving the party and joining the Saffron camp. After former Home Minister Naresh Raval and former Rajya Sabha MP Raju Parmar, now the name of former Prantij MLA of Sabarkantha district, Mahendra Sinh Baraiya is the newest to dessert the party. Sources said that Sinh will join BJP on August 22. In the 2017 assembly elections, Sinh was defeated by a narrow margin, said to be due to infighting among Congress leaders. In 2012, he won the Prantij assembly seat against Jai Singh Chauhan, the state education minister and former vice-president of state BJP unit.

19 killed, many missing in Himachal flash floods

HARPREET BAJWA @ Chandigarh

AT least 19 people have died, nine are injured and many are missing after 34 incidents of flash floods and landslides were reported from Himachal Pradesh's Mandi, Kangra, Chamba and Shimla districts.

The State Disaster Management Department said maximum damage was reported from Mandi, Kangra and Chamba districts.

Data available with the government said heavy rains swelled up several rivers and drains leading to house collapses, landslides and cloudbursts. At least 10 people died in Mandi district in eight landslides and two cloudbursts. Around 500 people were evacuated in Kangra district.

At 742 roads have been closed out of which 407 were restored and 268 will be cleared by Sunday, officials said. Heavy rains have affected power supply to 2,000 transformer regions. Water supply to 172 government schemes is disrupted.

The chief secretary has told authorities to close education institutes in the affected areas and provide shelter to the displaced people in schools and community centres.

Deputy commissioners have been told to ensure videography of the rain damage.

Mandi district is the worst affected with many people buried in a landslide triggered by heavy rains. Personnel drawn from the National Disaster Response Force and its state wing are helping in a difficult rescue work. At least 32 houses have been severely damaged and 14 of them lie in a danger zone. These houses have been vacated. A temple of Lord Shiva and a Satsang Bhawan at Kandapatan and HRTC bus stand at Dharampur are submerged. The authorities have also evacuated inmates of partially submerged Rajiv Gandhi Engineering College in Nagorta Bagwan. The students have been taken to safer places as the water entered the building after a flash flood. Many roads are blocked in Kangra as rivers are in spate.

Landslides have blocked the Mandi-Kullu road at Kataula since Friday. The Chandigarh-Manali highway is also blocked. A bridge across Majhiwar and Manju in Sunni was washed away and a landslide near Anandpur blocked Shoghi-Mehli bypass in Shimla.

Heavy rain: Bridge weakened by mining collapses

CHANDIGARH: Part of 90-year-old railway bridge over the Chakki river connecting Himachal Pradesh with Punjab was washed away due to flash floods on Saturday, resulting in suspension of the narrow-gauge service between Pathankot and Jogindernagar. The Railways had earlier warned the Punjab government that illegal mining was threatening its safety. Sources said one of the pillars had become weak due to mining, causing the bridge to collapse.

Uttarakhand: 15 feared dead in cloudburst fury, govt seeks Army help

NARENDRA SETHI @ Dehradun

AT least 15 people are feared dead in three separate cloudbursts in Uttarakhand on Saturday. Rescuers have recovered four bodies, the authorities said, adding the state government has sought Army's help in the rescue work.

Officials said more than a dozen people are either trapped under debris or missing. The injured are admitted at Jollygrant and Max hospitals.

Three separate cloudbursts triggered a flood-like situation across the state, including Rishikesh, early Saturday morning. Five people were killed and two bridges were washed away.

Dozens of people have been injured and many more are missing after a house collapsed in Pauri district. A woman was also killed in a cloudburst in Kirti Nagar in Tehri district and seven members of a family are buried under the house debris.

State Disaster Management Department's Additional Secretary Anand Shrivastava told TNIE that 13 people are still missing, four bodies have been recovered and 13 people are admitted in various hospitals.

The authorities have suspended Char Dham Yatra.

Before the cloudburst on Saturday, tremors were felt in Munsiyari area of Pithoragarh on Friday. People came out of their homes in panic. The tremors were felt in Thal, Tejam, Nachni, Bangpani, Askot areas of the district. According to the Disaster Management Department, the epicentre of the earthquake was in Tezam tehsil.

Meanwhile, state Congress Committee president Karan Mahra said the BJP government, which took credit for the all-weather road, has been exposed. He demanded proper compensation for the disaster-hit people and said they should be shifted to safer places.

"The bridge may be very old but due to the connivance of officials and contractors, such accidents are happening every day," he said. "Had the administration and the government taken cognizance earlier, the disaster could have been avoided," he added.

'I have options. AAP and BJP not the only ones interested in me'

THE diplomat-turned-politician Shashi Tharoor has managed to charm his way into the hearts of Thiruvananthapuram voters, winning the parliamentary constituency thrice in succession for Congress. He enjoys a support base that goes beyond the means of his party. But his political career seems to be going nowhere. Amid rumours of parties like AAP and Trinamool Congress wooing him, Tharoor talks to TNIE team about his politics, his equation with the Gandhis and his plans. Excerpts:

What drives Shashi Tharoor the politician? Is it political ambition or ideology? Don't say it is working for the people...

Working for the people (laughs) .... Every week, as an MP, I am able to deliver results to somebody. In a democracy, politics is still the most impactful way to make a difference. For that, in our system, you need to have a vehicle and the vehicle here is your party. There I have certainly found our share of challenges. I am giving it all very serious thought as to whether this is necessarily the most useful thing I could be doing.

You had been a diplomat before switching to politics. During your first tenure as MP, you were a minister in the UPA-2 cabinet. But, you have been 'just an MP' for the last eight years. Do you feel any disappointment?

So, you don't believe in the dictum 'never give up'? (chuckles...). Yes, we are in a stage where the Congress party is not in power either at the Centre or in the state. And, there are great limitations on how much an MP can deliver. You may have ideas, and you may diagnose the problems and solutions, but I will concede that there are frustrations. A number of people have been asking me why not turn my attention to the state where Congress is a serious contender for power.

Does that mean that you won't be contesting in the 2024 LS election?

No, no. All I am saying is that I am seriously examining all the options before me. It is the party that will decide whether to allot a seat to me or not. If my party gives me a ticket to contest, that could be one option. There are other options too.

What exactly are the other options?

I don't want to go into all that now. Once you go public, then they cease to be in your mind and they become objects of public discussion. I have not been somebody in my entire working life who has ever begged for something. Equally, I have not been somebody who shied away from an opportunity or challenge to make an impact.

There are rumours that AAP and BJP are keen to rope you in.

Well, they are not the only ones... (laughs loudly) I have the great inconvenience of having ideological convictions. So, parties that don't share the same ideological premises may probably not be an easy place for me to fit into.

Q&A

So, can we rule out BJP?

I think that is pretty obvious. If I were in the BJP, I wouldn't invite Shashi Tharoor to come and join.

What about AAP?

I have respect for many parties. In Delhi, we oppose the AAP. But I would say some of the work they (AAP) do is good. See, the service delivery aspect; we saw the same thing in 2020 in Kerala. If you can deliver service effectively to the public, that is not a bad thing.

What are your other options...?

There are regional parties having broadly the same ideology as that of Congress as they might have broken away at some point in time. It is difficult to say that ideologically there is an incompatibility. There are several parties that share broadly the orientation of Congress when it comes to mixed economy, foreign policy, political democracy and freedom of Press. In that sense, all those parties that subscribe to the same ideology could be compatible. But, right now I still have hope that Congress would turn out to be the right vehicle for advancing the dream of India.

You were part of the G23.

What is the current position?

Frankly, G23 is a media myth. It was a letter drafted by some of our colleagues which some of us were invited to sign. It is not a particularly coherent group. They were a group of people who met, the composition of which shifted from time to time and as you know one or two of the signatories are no longer in the party and some of them have dissociated with it. I signed it as by and large I agreed with its contents. One of the things that needed to be said was that the party was too important for the future of India to be allowed to drift and that it needed some serious institutional revival. That I still stand by.

Did you meet Sonia Gandhi or Rahul Gandhi after that?

I met Sonia Gandhi several times after that and Rahul Gandhi once or twice. Sonia Gandhi as interim president has not been inaccessible. She certainly had health issues but she hasn't been sort of absent at the leadership.

What's your equation with Rahul Gandhi?

Frankly, relationships with individuals have their ups and downs. I won't go around claiming any particular relationship with anyone. I don't badmouth anyone too. I don't believe in playing this game of attacking people and when attacked, I will usually smile and move on. I don't believe in this kind of politics.

The election for Congress president is coming up. Will you be a candidate?

Just wait for the elections to be announced and see what the options are. I am not saying I would necessarily be a candidate. If the "heir apparent" chooses not to be a contestant, then others will come forward and we will have a good set of choices.

Your political career seems to be stuck. Where is Shashi Tharoor headed?

Shashi Tharoor is not likely to stay in a rut for long. Let me leave it there (chuckles).

Pak's top probe agency FIA might arrest ex-PM Khan

ISLAMABAD

FORMER Pakistan Prime Minister Imran Khan could be arrested by the country's top investigating agency for failing to appear before it and snubbing its notices in the prohibited funding case, according to a media report on Saturday.

The Federal Investigation Agency (FIA) issued a second notice to Khan on Friday, according to The News. Khan received the first notice last Wednesday, but he refused to appear before the FIA investigation team, the newspaper said. "The final decision to arrest Imran Khan could be taken after issuing three notices," the report said, quoting highly-placed sources in the FIA. The FIA has traced five companies related to Khan's party that were operating in the USA, Australia, Canada, Britain and Belgium and they were not mentioned in the reports submitted to the Election Commission of Pakistan (ECP), the report said, quoting sources.

Khan on Wednesday asked FIA to take back the notice sent to him in the prohibited funding case in two days or he would take legal action. "Neither am I liable to answer to you nor is it liable on me to provide information to you. If notice is not taken back in two days, then I will take legal action against you," he said in a written response to the top investigation agency.

Didn't leave office with any classified docs: Pence

DES MOINES

FORMER Vice President Mike Pence said that he didn't take any classified information with him when he left office.

The disclosure—which would typically be unremarkable for a former vice president is notable given that FBI agents seized classified and top secret information from his former boss's Florida estate on August 8, while investigating potential violations of three different federal laws. Pence, asked directly if he had retained any classified information upon leaving office, told AP in an interview, "No, not to my knowledge."

Despite the inclusion of material marked top secret in the government's list of items recovered from Mar-a-Lago, Pence said, "I honestly don't want to prejudge it before until we know all the facts." Pence was in Iowa as part of a two day-trip.

Drone shot down at Russia's Black Sea fleet HQ roof

A second attempted attack against Crimea, Kremlin blames it on the Ukrainian forces

MOSCOW

A drone was shot down over the headquarters of Russia's Black Sea fleet in annexed Crimea on Saturday, a local official said.

"The drone was shot down just above the fleet headquarters" in the city of Sevastopol, city governor Mikhail Razvojaev wrote on Telegram, blaming the attempt on Ukrainian forces.

"It fell on the roof and caught fire," he said, adding that there was no major damage or victims. It was the second attempted attack against the fleet headquarters in less than a month.

Also on Saturday, Konstantin Ivashchenko, appointed by pro-Russian forces as mayor of the port city of Mariupol in south-eastern Ukraine, was the target of an assassination attempt, according to Russian news agencies.

An explosion rocked his car as it drove past a zoo, the RIA Novosti news agency quoted a police source as saying.

Ivashchenko "was not injured," the source added.

Earlier Saturday, air defence systems were activated in Evpatoria in western Crimea.

In another incident, twelve Ukrainians, including three children, were wounded Saturday after Russian forces attacked an apartment block and several houses in the city of Voznesensk, near a key nuclear plant, prosecutors said.

"According to preliminary information, 12 people including three children were injured. Two children are in a serious condition," the prosecutor's office said on Telegram.

Regional governor Vitaly Kim had earlier said on Telegram that nine people were injured, including four children aged between three and 17, and were all in serious condition. Voznesensk is located about 20 kilometres from the nuclear plant at Pivdennoukrainsk, Ukraine's second largest, and 70 kilometres from Mykolaiv, the regional capital.

The strikes hit an apartment building and several homes in the city, which is home to 30,000 people, the emergency services said on Facebook, showing a badly damaged building. The region, at the forefront of the war, suffers regular strikes.

NEWSCOPE

DYING TO LEAD FROM THE CORPORATE FRONT

GURBIR SINGH

THE corporate world is still quite stunned by the passing away of two leaders before their time. Rakesh Jhunjhunwalla, the darling of the stock market, died at 62 on August 14, opening up an outpouring of grief. Anshu Jain, just 59, and former global CEO of Deutsche Bank, died a day earlier of duodenal cancer. His passing away saw a more muted response.

The two deaths have reignited the discussion of stress taking a toll in high places. Is the live-wire routine, threat of hostile takeovers and long hours of grappling with financial and other worries, reducing life spans?

Everyone knew Rakesh Jhunjhunwalla was suffering from illness. He was usually seen in public on a wheelchair. But his cheery pictures on Akasha Air's inaugural flight to Ahmedabad 10-12 days ago did not say death was so close at hand. He died of cardiac arrest, but Jhunjhunwalla had a litany of problems. His kidneys were in bad shape. He was a diabetic too and had recently undergone angioplasty.

But the investment world was not about to let him go; more so after he had just launched a new airline and there was expectation he would work wonders.

Anshu Jain was of a different league. He grew up in Jaipur and Delhi, but made his mark as Deutsche Bank's Global CEO, rising through the ranks as the bank's first non-white, non-German speaking chief executive in 2012. He was always seen as a hard-driving, competitive banker. A colleague quoted by Financial Times said "Anshu was a killer. He always had a knife between his teeth." But perhaps he cut too many corners and he fell foul of market regulators and had to leave Deutsche Bank.

After he joined Cantor Fitzgerald, a much smaller investment bank, and he was diagnosed with duodenal cancer, he blamed Deutsche Bank and the stress on the job the organisation had caused him.

Stress, the silent killer

In the case of Jhunjhunwalla and Anshu Jain, the direct impact of 'corporate' stress still needs to be assessed. But there are umpteen cases chronicled where depression from failure has directly claimed lives. Sample the case of Lalit Sheth: It was a rags-to-riches story where in 1976 Sheth came to Mumbai and pioneered the group travel industry with his company, Raj Travels.

Then he took two wrong decisions – launch of Raj Air as a high value pilgrim air taxi, and a luxury passenger bus ine – both of which went under. Laden with crores of debt he couldn't pay, 10 years ago on 1 August, Lalit Sheth stopped his car on the Worli Sea Link, in Mumbai, and slipped into the sea to disappear forever.

In 2015, Michael A. Freeman, M.D. University of California, and his team researched mental health concerns among entrepreneurs and found 72% they surveyed reported mental health issues. The most poignant was the case of Reddit co-founder Aaron Swartz.

BURNOUT

Two deaths have reignited the discussion of stress taking a toll in high places. Is the live-wire routine, threat of hostile takeovers and long hours reducing life spans?

SOURAV ROY

He took his life at 26 after suffering months of depression in 2013, just before he faced a court trial for 'stealing' articles from the M.I.T. server which he wanted to make public. Besides his pioneering work as an online entrepreneur, Swartz was an Internet activist who stood againstdigital censorship. His family said he suffered months of depression as agents investigated his hacking activity.

"There is a moment, immediately before life becomes no longer worth living, when the world appears to slow down and all its myriad details suddenly become brightly, achingly apparent," he wrote in a 2007 post titled: A Moment Before Dying.

Ageing faster

A working paper released last year by the US' National Bureau of Economic Research found that CEOs of large companies can age faster and die sooner due to the high-stress scenarios of the job. Working with lifespan data and on-the-job photos of Fortune 500 chief executives, the study, for instance, found that a "30% median firm stock-price decline over a two-year horizon" has an effect similar to 1.5 years of aging.

Other studies have pointed in the same direction. A much-quoted research work by Harvard Business School Professor Tom Nicholas tracked the status and mortality rates of more than 1,000 managers and other employees at General Electric, starting in the 1930s. Results showed that high-level business executives died three to five years earlier on average than lower-level workers at GE, and work-related stresshad a bearing on the shorter life spans.

Corporate capitalism, by its very nature, looks at business performance in terms of revenue and profit; and the human functionary – shorn of all the trappings – is a cog in the proverbial wheel. Intrinsically, therefore, the stress in the system is transmitted to the organization's decision-making network; and the higher up the ladder, the greater the stress.

An entire body of social practice – HR or Human Relations – has therefore been developed to ensure there is a safety valve in the system to prevent the pressure cooker from exploding. But that is provided external factors remain constant.

With fast-changing regulations, political upheaval and a yo-yoing international economy, the business enterprise is exacting a higher human cost every day.

Why goods and services tax rate rationalisation is need of the hour

As there are multiple GST rates, taxpayers often misclassify their products or services

MONIKA YADAV @ New Delhi

WITH multiple rates of goods and services tax (GST), taxpayers find it difficult to categorise the goods and services under the correct slab.

Though the GST department has been coming up with frequent clarifications, there are still gaps in the current system due to which many taxpayers escape paying high taxes. In order to improve the compliance measures and alleviate these complexities related to classification, the government has been mulling GST rate rationalisation and it has even formed a Group of Ministers (GoM) panel.

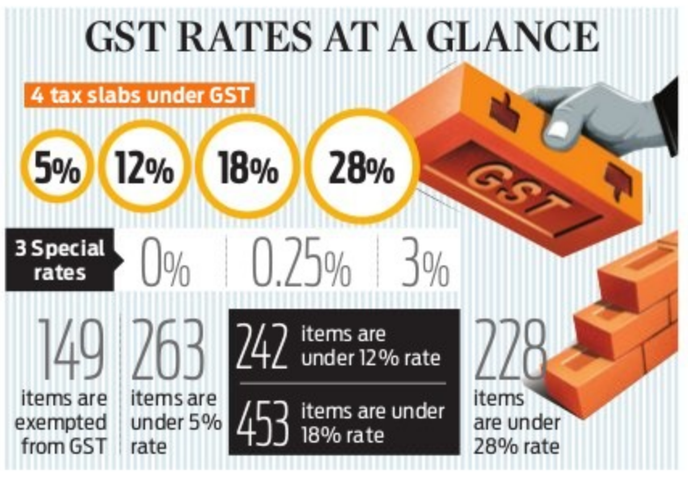
"At present in India, there are more than 10 GST rates (including special rates). When there are multiple tax rates then there exists a risk of misclassification as taxpayers try to classify their products or services under lower tax bracket whereas tax authorities would try to classify them under higher tax bracket. Thus, lower number of tax brackets/rates will reduce possibilities of such classification disputes," Pritam Mahure, a Pune-based Chartered Accountant, said.

Mahure gave an example of 'muska khari or twist khari' which is a 'toasted product' and should attract 5% but the tax authorities in certain cases contend that it should attract 18% GST.

"The relevant tariff entries of GST rate notification provides for GST of 5% on rusks, toasted bread and similar toasted products," he said.

Easier compliance

Multiple rates under GST is a compliance nightmare for taxpayers. Tax experts say that the rationalisation of rate slabs will help in easing the compliance process for smaller businesses.



"As we have completed five years of GST, it is now essential to focus on the rationalisation of the rate slabs and further ease the compliance process, especially for smaller businesses," says MS Mani, partner at Deloitte India.

For smaller businesses, higher rates as well as multiple tax rates are equally troublesome.

Kunal Singhal, senior partner with Suresh Chandra & Associates, a chartered accountancy firm, explains:

"Smaller businesses don't have as much working capital as big businesses have, so they often tend to make delayed payment of taxes with interest. When they do so, the customers to whom they supply their products cannot take an input tax credit. And if the large businesses cannot take the credit, they won't pay to small businesses."

Singhal says small businesses often face problems because of this and therefore, he believes if rates come down, small businesses will comply more.

Three-rate structure

The aim of the whole rate rationalisation exercise is not just to increase tax rates but bring down the number of tax slabs. Various finance ministry sources told TNIE that the government is considering a three-slab structure for GST, so that the objectives of rate rationalisation can be fulfilled.

GST slabs

The aim of the whole Goods and Services rate rationalisation exercise is not just to increase tax rates but bring down the number of tax slabs. Various finance ministry sources told TNIE that the government is considering a three-slab structure for GST

The ultimate objective, obviously, is to improve compliance and increase revenue collection.

"All footwear products fall under 12% slab but some rubber products come under 5% rate. So, some footwear manufacturers claim that their products come under 5%, which is wrong. As per the GST rules, more specific description should be used for the classification of goods and services and not the general description. Rate rationalisation will help in overcoming these hurdles," a top government official said.

"There are some taxpayers who misuse the GST law and misclassify their goods and services under the lower tax slab, because of which their customers cannot claim input tax credit," he added.

Meanwhile, as per sources, there is a huge problem of inverted duty structure in the textile sector. Inverted tax structure refers to a situation where the rate of GST on inputs purchased is higher than the tax payable on the output.

"While many of the inverted duty structure situations have been corrected over the past few years, it is essential to remedy the same in the textile sector and also have the same rates across the value chain of a particular sector," Mani said.

It may be recalled that the government in December last year had deferred correcting inverted duty structure on textile from January 1, 2022. It had asked the GoM on rate rationalisation to look into this issue and suggest a special rate post rectifying the inverted duty structure.

"Correcting the inverted duty structure will lead to reduction in the requirement of tax refunds," Mahure added.

According to government sources, any rate change in the upcoming festive season will be a little disruptive, so the inverted duty structure in the textile sector will be taken up only after two to three months. Besides the textile sector, there are some products in ship building, which require correction in inverted duty.

Rate rationalisation is probably the biggest 'reform' that is required to make the GST regime more efficient. As and when the exercise is complete, it is expected that the GST would be a less complex system that not only would make compliances easier but also boost revenue collection.

Adani to launch open offer for ACC, Ambuja

PTI @ New Delhi

THE Adani Group is likely to launch an open offer of ₹31,000 crore next week to acquire 26% stake each in Swiss firm Holcim's two Indian listed entities -- Ambuja Cements and ACC-- from public shareholders.

In May this year, the Adani Group announced that it has clinched a deal to acquire a controlling stake in Holcim Ltd's businesses in India for $10.5 billion. Markets regulator Sebi granted approval for the open offer this week. The open offer is estimated at over ₹31,000 crore if fully subscribed. In two separate regulatory filings, Ambuja Cements and ACC have submitted their letter of offers for the open offer launched by the Adani family group's Mauritius-based firm Endeavour Trade and Investment.

Govt allows 10 state discoms to buy and sell electricity on spot market

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

THE power ministry on Saturday allowed three more states – Tamil Nadu, Madhya Pradesh and Rajasthan – to sell and buy electricity at the spot market after they cleared their dues to the power generators.

Only three states – Karnataka, Jammu and Kashmir, and Mizoram -- are now barred from trading in the spot electricity market. These three states together have an outstanding of ₹801 crore.

Jammu and Kashmir owes a maximum ₹ 552 crore followed by Karnataka (₹223 crore) and Mizoram ₹26 crore. Power System Operation Corporation (POSOCO), a national grid operator invoking the Electricity (Late Payment Surcharge and Related Matters) Rules, 2022 barred 27 discoms from 12 states and one UT from trading in power exchanges in India on account of non-payment on 18 August 2022.

These states included Andhra Pradesh, Tamil Nadu, Telangana, Manipur, Mizoram, Karnataka, Bihar, Rajasthan, Jharkhand, Jammu and Kashmir, Madhya Pradesh, Maharashtra, and Chhattisgarh. Together they owe Rs 5085 crore to the power generators.

Among the states, Telangana owes the maximum ₹1,380 crore, followed by Tamil Nadu 926 crore, Rajasthan 501 crore, Jammu Kashmir 435 crore and Andhra Pradesh 412 crore. On Friday, POSOCO had removed seven states from the banned list.

"TANGEDCO has paid ₹70 crore owed by it to power generators after the Union power ministry banned it from buying or selling electricity in the spot market," said a power official from Tamil Nadu Generation and Distribution Corporation.

This is the first time when the ministry has invoked the rule to penalise default discoms by not letting them trade in the three power exchanges -- Indian Energy Exchange (IEX), Power Exchange India Limited (PXIL) and Hindustan Power Exchange (HPX). The Electricity Rules 2022, notified this year in June, mandates discoms to pay payment surcharge (LPS) on the outstanding amount after the due date of payment. The rate of late payment surcharge for the successive months of default will increase by 0.5% for every month of delay, provided that the late payment surcharge will not be more than 3% higher than the base rate at any time.

Shaheen ruled out of Asia Cup with knee injury

Pakistan's Shaheen Shah Afridi was ruled out of the upcoming Asia Cup and the home series against England with a knee injury. The Pakistan Cricket Board (PCB) said Shaheen has been advised four-six weeks rest by the its medical advisory committee. He is expected to return to action in the New Zealand tri-series, followed by the ICC T20 World Cup.

The evergreen paddler re-established his credentials as one of the GOATs across Indian sporting ecosystem with four medals at the Commonwealth Games. In an interview with Swaroop Swaminathan, he opens up on a variety of topics, including his plans post 2024

THE LEGEND OF SHARATH KAMAL

THE smile on A Sharath Kamal's face is twinkling like a star on a clear summer night. He's describing the 'best two weeks of my career' — the Commonwealth Games at Birmingham — when he made it his personal mission to win all the available jewellery on offer. If Sharath was a separate country, he would have finished 16th on the medals tally, with three gold and one silver. In an interview with this daily, the 40-year-old opens up about his longevity, the dietary changes and sleep patterns, why he hates being called a 'veteran' and the controversies in the sport. Excerpts:

PHOTO: AP

ARE YOU SURPRISED BY YOUR LONGEVITY?

I'm. I'm also a little bit fed up with people calling me a veteran (laughs), warhorse... what are other words? True, Am at an age where I can play world veteran championships. But when you look at me on the court, you don't think it's a 40-year-old. I can see that myself. The way I move, the way I get that energy out of myself, connect with the spectators, get the energy from them... Yes, over the period, learned a lot but, at the same time, if I'm able to stay as fit as I'm...

WHAT ARE SOME OF THE THINGS YOU HAVE PICKED UP IN THE LAST FEW YEARS?

The main change is eating by 7.00 PM. When my father-in-law comes back from the office at that time, he will have his coffee while I have my dinner. Next morning I'm ready to go. Otherwise, I feel like not getting up. That's because the food hasn't been digested. Of course, I cannot be like (PV) Sindhu and say 'no ice cream' or like Virat Kohli and say 'no cheat meal'. With kids at home, there is always a cheat meal. There are always leftovers and it's not easy to take them for ice cream and say 'you eat, I watch'. Of course, I try and control it. But, at the same time, it's not like a strict no. Because I don't want to try and pick that fight with myself every time. For example, if there are some french fries and I want to eat, I will probably eat like three or four and be content. I don't pick that fight during matches. During matches, if I feel like 'okay, cake', then 'okay, cake'. Then, you will have that psychological thing of 'I'm giving you what you want, you give me what I want now'.

YOU HAVE REVAMPED YOUR SLEEP PATTERN?

It is one thing that I want to constantly maintain. I don't have to fight for that because my wife understands it now. Earlier, she would keep talking to me at 10.00 PM and I would be half dead. Now she knows. She's like 'after 8.00 PM, I will not talk to this guy. He can do what he wants. If there is anything, I will tell him in the morning'.

HOW DO YOU MANAGE BETWEEN SHARATH THE ATHLETE, SHARATH THE FATHER, SHARATH THE HUSBAND AND SHARATH THE SON?

It's been tough but the family has made it easy. They have made it easy because they are able to take care of themselves and they don't really trouble me. I can have a clear focus on the sport when I'm playing the sport. When I'm home, I can give that energy on them. I divide the day into two, first half is for myself, second half is for them. Everybody finds their place in this whole thing and we are able to go in harmony. I would now like to take my career two years by two years, 2026 is four years from now. My daughter would be 15, my son would be 7-8. Normally, at the age where I'm, I should be focusing on their future and their career. I'm still focusing on mine which is not right. In the next two years, this is how much I can do with table tennis and this is how much I can do with the family. If I say 'this is what I'm going to do for the next four years and you do what you want' to my wife, then it will be like 'please sign here (laughs)'.

SUNDAY SPECIAL

WHAT'S IT LIKE TO PERFORM IN THE SPORT WITH THE COMMITTEE OF ADMINISTRATORS (CoA) IN THE BACKGROUND?

Not just the CoA or the suspension of the federation (TTFI). There have been a lot of controversies going around. It was disturbing me, a lot of external noise. But I understood when I spoke to my (Bundesliga) colleague, Timo Boll, in Dusseldorf. What he does well is it doesn't matter what happens outside. He can shut everything out. If the team needs to win, I need to win my two matches. So, let me just focus on myself.

DO YOU THINK THE GOVT HASN'T GIVEN YOU THE AWARDS YOUR TITLES SPEAK FOR ?

See, it's the Khel Ratna alone which is missing. I would probably say 2018 was the year when the sport itself came to the limelight. When you look at the Khel Ratna, it's the best sportsperson across all sport. So, when you look at a Kidambi Srikanth, World No 1... I'm World No 30. Then, Neeraj Chopra. Even before the Olympic Games, he had won Commonwealth Games, won the junior Worlds, he was right up there. So how can I compare myself with these guys? That way, it's... of course I applied, you expect but... Khel Ratna is something which is across all sport. Now, I feel I'm in the right space. I have truly earned my spot to be one of the best sportspersons across all sports. I will be applying for the Khel Ratna now. At the same time, if a Srikanth gets it instead of me, I will still be happy. Look at the way they play. Fair enough, everybody is doing their bit.

END OF DREAMS

Hope turns into despair for Gokulam

ENS @Chennai

THE writing was on the wall. Ever since FIFA (world football body) imposed a ban on All India Football Federation (AIFF0, Gokulam Kerala FC were hoping for a miracle to take part in the AFC Women's Club Championship until the start of the event on Saturday. They were fighting a lost cause even though the sports ministry had made a last-minute plea to both the FIFA and the AFC to include them.

Even though they had learnt about the suspension only after reaching Uzbekistan (host country), they were technically out of the competition once the FIFA ban was imposed. As reported by this daily, they were not part of the official fixture until Friday, just 24 hours ahead of the start of West group matches, where the Kerala club was supposed to be part of. That the AIFF mess will take some time to be sorted, the clock was always ticking for them. On Saturday, it was confirmed that they will not be part of the event with the sports ministry asking the team to return to the country. The team is expected to come home on Monday.

History-making Antim ready for Vinesh test

FIROZ MIRZA @ Chennai

THREE months ago, she was on the verge of making the biggest upset of her career during the selection trials held at the SAI training centre in Lucknow to pick up the women's wrestling team for the 2022 Commonwealth Games. Antim Panghal, 17, was leading 3-1 in the second period against the reigning Commonwealth and Asian Games champion Vinesh Phogat in the 53kg weight category final and was only 10 seconds away from the famous victory. It, however, turned out to be a heartbreak for the young wrestler as Vinesh used her vast experience to level the scores and win on criteria.

Antim Panghal | uww

Antim was hurt but it also made her tougher and more determined. She then went on medal winning spree pocketing a silver at the U-23 Asian Championship in June followed by a gold at the junior Asian Championship next month. She then translated the success from age-group events to senior level as she finished on top of the podium at the Zouhaier Sghaier Tournament Ranking Series a few days later. And fittingly enough on Friday, the Haryana teenager created history by becoming the first woman from the country to clinch a gold at the U-20 World Championships in Sofia, Bulgaria. High on recent successes, Antim is now ready for round two with her illustrious compatriot Vinesh with the selection trials scheduled for the Senior World Championships (September 10-18) on August 29.

"That trial bout in May was my first against her (Vinesh). Even then, my coach had asked me to go all out as I have nothing to lose. I lost then but will come back better this time around especially after having such good past few months," Antim told this daily.

Even though the Wrestling Federation of India (WFI) exempted CWG gold medallists Ravi Dahiya (57kg), Bajrang Punia (65kg) and Deepak Punia (86kg) from trials, it made them mandatory for the women wrestlers. The WFI's diktat meant Antim will now have another go at Vinesh. Speaking on the rivalry, which still is at the nascent stage, Antim said, "She has won many laurels for the country. It's always good for me if I wrestle with her as it will improve my game. I hope this time I win."
